GLYNN SAYS FORCE ALONE CAN PREVENT HIM TAKING OFFICE

Increased Bitterness After Arbitration Offer Marks Conflict for Possession of New York's Governorship

SULZER'S ARBITRATION OFFER CALLED BARTER

Both Claimants Endeavor to Perform Duties of Office, and Contest Seems Endless. Mrs. Sulzer Ill

(By Associated Press.)

ALBANY, Aug. 16.—All negotiations toward having the courts decide who is the governor of New York were declared off today. For the third consecutive day William Sulzer, the impeached governor, and Martin H. Glynn, who was elected lieutenant governor, occupied offices in the capitol, each claiming to be the chief executive.

Indications were that the deadlock would last till the meeting of the legislature next Tuesday if not longer. Neither claimant endeavored to interfere in any way with the other.

Each seemed to be marking time, waiting for the other to take the offensive.

New York's two governors, after the epistolary clash of yesterday, continued today with increased bitterness their conflict for sole possession of the chief executive's chair and functions.

The proposal of William Sulzer, the impeached governor, that he and his rival place their respective claims before the courts for speedy settlement came to grief last night. Lieutenant Governor Glynn, who claims that he is acting governor by virtue of Sulzer's impeachment, notified Mr. Sulzer that he had no intention of asking any court save the court for the trial of impeachment to decide the question.

Mr. Glynn's refusal places the entire situation at sea again. His action was a distinct surprise to Mr. Sulzer's friends.

"It is beyond my power to barter away any of the functions attached to the office in which I am placed by your impeachment," reads Mr. Glynn's reply to Mr. Sulzer's suggestion. "Any attempt on my part to do so or to stipulate a method by which it might be done would properly place me in the position you now occupy—that of being impeached for malfeasance in office. I cannot and will not attempt to do it.

"I hold myself in readiness to perform and shall perform every function of the office of governor, except insofar as I am restrained by your illegal action or by physical force."

No one was willing to forecast this morning what the day would bring forth.

Among the reports current was one that Mr. Glynn expected to go in person to the executive chamber and attempt to perform the duties of the governor. Mr. Sulzer asserted that he did not intend to relinquish any of the rights of the governorship.

The words "physical force" were brought into the controversy for the first time by Mr. Glynn's letter.

Last night was the worst passed by Mrs. Sulzer since she became ill of a nervous disorder several days ago. All her condition this morning was less alarming according to bulletins issued by the attending physicians.

The breach between Sulzer and Glynn is complete, and there will be no further conference between their counsel, so far as now known, on the question of submitting the controversy to the courts.

Asked what his next move would be, Cady Herrick, Sulzer's chief counsel said:

"I don't know that there will be a next move."

RAIN OF BULLETS SWEEPS COURT AS PRISONER IS FREED

Constable Robert Sears, of Montgomery, Shoots Negro Acquitted of Charge of Shooting Him Last December

JUDGE HID BEHIND DESK AS SHOTS PELTED COURT

Grand Jury Called Into Special Session to Take Action, Deputy Is Charged With Contempt

(By Associated Press.)

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 16.—Wild excitement was caused in the city court room early last night when Robert Sears, constable and former deputy sheriff, shot down Will Smith, a negro, a moment after a jury had acquitted the latter of a charge of shooting at Sears last December while the constable was trying to make an arrest. One shot broke the negro's arm and another penetrated his shoulder and cheek. He will likely recover.

Judge Armstead Brown and officers of the court hid behind desks and furniture to escape the fusilade of bullets. Sears was finally overpowered and Judge Brown ordered him to jail for contempt of court.

The court has summoned the grand jury into special session Monday to take immediate action.

"SPY" IN LOBBY PROBE IS PAID BY NEWSPAPER

J. H. McMichael Admits New York World Pays Him, but Says It Is for Story

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—J. H. McMichael, former chief page of the house, described by Martin M. Mulhall in his lobby exposure as the "chief spy" upon congressmen for the National Association of Manufacturers, testified before the house lobby committee that he was now being paid a weekly salary of $75 by the New York World, which printed the original Mulhall charges. McMichael explained he was being paid under an agreement to write a story about "twenty years a house employee" after the lobby investigation was over.

Attorney J. Bleaby-Smith, representing Representative J. T. McDermott, told the committee he would bring Allan A. Irvine, a government supply contractor of this city, to testify that McMichael had informed Irvine he would receive a weekly salary until he had corroborated Mulhall's testimony.

"I have a contract to begin after this hearing, but I don't think you have any right to inquire into my private business," retorted McMichael when pressed for details.

The committee finally required a fuller answer.

"I am under a verbal agreement—not one in writing," began McMichael. "I am out of a job and must make a living. So I agreed to write a story of twenty years a house employee, but it was expressly understood I was not to write it until after this investigation."

"And you receive $75 a week?"

"Yes, sir."

"Didn't you tell Irvine you were to receive the salary for corroborating Mulhall?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Didn't you tell Irvine that if Representative McDermott would pay you $325 he owed you, that you would not say a word to hurt him," demanded Smith. "Did you intend to suppress all you have told if McDermott paid you the $325?"

"Absolutely not," insisted McMichael; "I intended to do just as I am doing, tell the unvarnished truth."

McMichael's sensational testimony which accused McDermott of having received some $7,000 of a corruption fund, raised by local pawnbrokers to defeat a federal loan shark law, already has resulted in the subpoena of four capital pawnbrokers and the committee intends to follow the lead.

McDermott's attorney had opportunity to cross-examine McMichael when the committee met today.

McMichael testified today that the pawnbrokers raised $7,500 to defeat the bill and McDermott was to get $6,000. He swore that the conference at which that was arranged took place in April, 1911. Attorney Smith, for McDermott, brought out that the loan shark bill was not introduced until May and at that time it did not include pawnbrokers.

"When did McDermott tell you about getting money for the loan shark bill?" asked Smith.

"Shortly after it became a law. I said to him 'Mac, on the level, what did you get out of the loan shark bill?' He said: 'I got mine.' Well, it was about $7,500."

Pressed to fix a date for that conversation, McMichael declined to be more specific. He testified that he knew McDermott had invested $6,000 in an airship company.

DULUTH MILLIONAIRE FOUND DEAD IN CELLAR

Lumberman With $90,000 Accident Insurance Dies From Mysterious Shot

(By Associated Press.)

DULUTH, Minn., Aug. 16.—Ninety thousand dollars accident insurance money is involved in the death of John McAlpine, Duluth millionaire lumberman, whose body was found in the basement of his home here yesterday with a bullet in the head.

Chief of Police Troyer leans strongly to the theory of murder as does a private detective, while the family declare that Mr. McAlpine was accidentally shot when he fell over a pipe with an automatic pistol in his hand, and, it not, that a burglar did the killing. A basement window open enough to permit a human body to squeeze through lends strength tothe latter supposition.

According to the police, Mrs. John McAlpine today turned abruptly from the murder or accident theories and declared her husband had committed suicide. On the morning of the finding of the body Mrs. McAlpine said she awoke about 2:45 a. m., feeling ill. The house was brilliantly lighted. The cards were on the table where her husband had been playing solitaire, waiting for his step-son, Dale McAlpine, and Dale's wife, to return.

Finding that her husband was not in the bed room Mrs. McAlpine went out into the corridor. From there she saw that the downstairs rooms were lighted. She called her husband's name, but there was no answer. She then summoned Dale. He followed through the lower floor rooms to the basement door, which the mother and son found open. No shot or other disturbing noise had been heard, according to Mrs. McAlpine.

There, she said, young McAlpine found his step-father lying face downward near the furnace. A window opening into the basement coal bin had been removed, but not set clear of the opening. There was sufficient space, however, for a person to enter. As soon as he had discovered the body the younger McAlpine hurried to telephone a doctor. A slight trace of powder was on the scalp of the dead man, indicating that the weapon had been fired at close range.

HEAT-STRICKEN WEST HELPED BY SHOWERS

Little Children Run Into Streets of Kansas City to Drink in Falling Rain

(By Associated Press.)

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 16.—Heavy showers last night and early today relieved conditions in parts of the heat and drouth-stricken regions of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, but the rains were far from general and in most instances inadequate.

Temperatures that for twelve days have hovered above the 100 mark, fell today in southern Kansas and northern Oklahoma because of showers and clouds, but there were evidences of a thirteenth day of extreme heat generally over Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Heavy rain was reported this morning over a wide section of southern Kansas. The temperature at Arkansas City was 15 degrees below yesterday's. Hutchinson, Kan., reported nearly an inch of rain.

Northern Oklahoma has attained great relief through showers that began yesterday afternoon and continued today.

Light showers fell in this city yesterday, cooling the atmosphere and pavements. Hundreds of children rushed into the street and stood in the rain.

Drouth in northern and eaern Kansas and most of Missouri continued unabated. Springfield, Mo., which has had less than half the normal rainfall since April 1, faced a menace of failure of its water supply. In pracically all the Springfield churches prayers for rain will be offered late this afternoon.

In southeastern Kansas and southwestern Missouri, many mining towns are suffering from want of water. Pittsburg, Kas., and Joplin, Mo., are supplying many of these points with water shipped in tank trains.

Fruit growers of St. Joseph, Mo., who had expected a heavy crop of apples, say the fruit is dropping from trees immature and that the late crop may be a total loss.

Topeka suffered the twelfth hot night during which the minimum temperature has exceeded 75.

Wichita, Kas., reported showers this morning after an oppressively hot night.

Rain was reported in Kingman and Harper counties, Kas., last night.

An inch of water fell at Wellington, Kas., half an inche at Endgwick, and a shower in Butler county.

People in eastern Jackson county are enjoying hand-picked catfish as a by-product of the drouth. Most of the streams have shrunk to standing pools.

Heat Forces Farmers to Thresh by Light of Moon

(By Associated Press.)

LACROSSE, Wis., Aug. 16.—Moonlight threshing was the rule on the big farms about LaCrosse both on the Wisconsin and Minnesota side of the river last night. Threshing crews were unable to work in the day time since Wednesday on account of the intense heat, so men and teams slept during the day and early last evening when the moon came out brightly and a cooling breeze swept over the farms the forces resumed work and continued throughout the night.

Governor Has Borrowed $475,000 Under New Constitutional Amendment

The county school teachers of Georgia are to receive within the next few days checks for their back salaries to be paid from the sum of $475,000 borrowed by the governor under the new constitutional amendment, plus 20 per cent of the $2,550,000 appropriated for the general school fund of 1913.

At this time, in all probability, the board will arrange to hear from the different publishers with reard to their texts prior to the adoption, on October 27, 1913.

MISS IRENE JACKSON DECLARES FRANK LOOKED INTO DRESSING ROOM ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS

Daughter of Policeman A. W. Jackson Testifies That Frank Opened the Door of Dressing Room and Looked in While Young Lady Was Dressing and That a Complaint Was Registered With a Forelady, Miss Cleland, About It

NEWSPAPER MAN TELLS OF JIM CONLEY'S PANTOMIME RE-ENACTMENT AT FACTORY

Solicitor Dorsey Attacks the Pinkertons, Charging That They Failed to Report Their "Finds" to Police—Many Young Women Employed at the Factory Testify to Frank's Good Character—Court Adjourns Until Monday Morning

With Harllee Branch, a reporter for The Journal, on the witness stand where he had just described Conley's pantomime re-enactment of his alleged part in the disposal of the body of Mary Phagan, witnessed by him as a newspaper man, the trial of Leo M. Frank was adjourned at 1:05 o'clock Saturday afternoon until Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Mr. Branch, summoned by the defense to testify in regard to an interview with Jim Conley at the tower, over the protest of Attorney Luther Z. Rosser, was permitted by the court to describe Conley's pantomime re-enactment when requested to do so by the solicitor.

Just before the court adjourned, Judge Roan addressed a few words to the jury, expressing regret that it was necessary to keep them away from their families another Sunday but stating that he sincerely hoped this would be the last Sunday that they would have to be held together.

Unexpected testimony for the state was drawn from Miss Irene Jackson, daughter of Policeman A. W. Jackson, a former employe of the factory, who had been summoned as a defense witness. On cross-examination Solicitor Dorsey developed testimony to the effect that the girls in the factory were somewhat afraid of Frank, that on one occasion Frank had looked into the dressing room while Miss Emily Mayfield was partly dressed and that Miss Mayfield had complained to a forelady, Miss Cleland. She told of other occasions on which the superintendent is alleged to have pushed the door of the dressing room open while the girls were in there dressing. She admitted on cross-examination that the occurrence to which she testified occurred last summer, but that she had remained at the factory until after the murder, when her father made her leave. She also admitted that there had been complaint of the girls flirting through the windows of the dressing room and that Frank had spoken to her forelady about it.

CLASH OVER PINKERTONS.

Efforts of Solicitor Dorsey to show that the Pinkertons did not "go down the road with the city police and detectives," but that on the contrary they concealed evidence discovered by them from the city detectives brought a protest from Attorney Luther Z. Rosser. It was during the testimony of W. D. McWorth, the Pinkerton who found the bloody club, part of a pay envelope and some lengths of cord on the first floor of the factory, that the argument was precipitated. The jury was sent out during the argument. Dorsey charged that Detective Jonn Black, hearing about the find of a bloody club, went to the Pinkertons and was shown the handle of a buggy whip, produced in court by the solicitor, instead of the club. Judge Roan permitted the state to ask when the Pinkertons had reported to the police, but declared hearsay evidence must be omitted.

Solicitor Dorsey also sought in his questioning of McWorth to show that when McWorth showed the portion of the pay envelope found by him to the Colemans, there was a figure 5 on it and that Mary Phagan's wages for the week in which she was killed were $1.20, containing no such figures. The Pinkerton denied that there was a figure 5 on the envelope and that there had been any conversation with the Colemans about the figure 5.

In the examination of Mrs. Rae Frank's testimony, many women employes of the pencil factory took the stand Saturday morning to testify to the good character of Leo M. Frank and the bad reputation of the negro Jim Conley. Practically the same questions were asked all of these witnesses and the same answers received in reply. The solicitor contented himself with a few brief questions, except in the case of Miss Opie Dickinson. Miss Dickinson couldn't remember whether she had been at the Bijou theater with Darley, Wade Campbell and Miss Louise Gresham on the night of April 26, though pressed for a definite answer by the solicitor. The purpose of the solicitor's question was not apparent.

Attorneys for the defense of Leo M. Frank, who has been on trial in the criminal divison of the superor court since July 28 for the murder of Mary Phagan, changed their plans during Friday's session and have called more than one hundred additional witnesses, principally employes of the National Pencil factory, who will testify to the good character of the young superintendent.

Apparently by the weight of overwhelming numbers the defense is endeavoring to build such a character wall around Frank that it cannot be broken down by the promised attack of Solicitor H. M. Dorsey's witnesses, who will be introduced in rebuttal.

Mrs. Rae Frank, mother of the accused, was recalled to the stand by the defense when court resumed Saturday morning for the eighteenth day of the Frank trial. She had been the last witness of Friday afternoon's session, identifying then a letter signed "Leo M. Frank" and dated Atlanta, April 26, which she said had been received by her brother-in-law, Moses Frank, and had been opened by him in her presence in a New York hotel on April 28. While on the stand Friday Mrs. Frank promised to the state that she would produce in court Saturday morning the originals of telegrams sent by her son to his uncle in New York.

Attorney Rosser asked, "Have you any rich relatives in Brooklyn?"

"No, I have not."

"Was there any other paper in this envelope when you saw it?" asked Mr. Rosser, producing the envelope identified by Mrs. Frank Friday.

"Yes, another long paper with something on it about prices was taken out with the two papers you have read."

"Mrs. Frank I hand you here what purports to be a photograph of some handwriting. Do you know whose it is?"

"Yes, it is my son's handwriting."

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness again.

Indicating the photograph, which was exhibited several days ago to a witness who identified much of Frank's handwriting but could not identify the photographed writing, the solicitor asked: "Anyone at all familiar with your son's handwriting would know at once that that is his, wouldn't he?"

"Yes."

The solicitor questioned Mrs. Frank about the papers which were received by Moses Frank in the envelope. She said that she could not tell much about the long slip, but that Mr. McCarley got them all back from Europe and he could tell. She had never had it in her hand, she said.

"What relatives have you in Brooklyn?" asked the solicitor.

"My sister, Mrs. Bennett."

"What does her husband do?"

"He's a clerk at $18 a week. He clerks for my brother in LaFayette avenue."

"What does your brother do?"

"He is a clerk for my son-in-law, Mr. Stearns."

"What does your son-in-law do?"

"He is a retail cigar dealer."

ESTATE NOT LARGE.

"Your own estate is quite large, isn't it?"

"No, sir."

"What are your tax returns?"

"I don't understand your question."

"What is the value of your estate?"

"I have no estate."

"Well, what do you live on?"

"We have a little money out at interest."

"How much is that?"

"About $20,000."

"That is all your own?"

"No, indeed, it belongs to my husband and myself together."

"Do you own the house you live in?"

"I don't understand."

"Lafayette avenue is one of the principal streets in Brooklyn, isn't it?"

"We don't live on Lafayette avenue. We live on Underhill avenue."

"Well, how does it rank?"

"It's just a residential section."

"Don't you know the size of your lot?"

"I think it's about 16x90."

"Is there a two-story house on it?"

"Yes."

"Made of brick?"

"Yes, I think so."

"What taxes do you pay?"

"We pay $85 a year, I think. New York rates. But you must remember, Mr. Dorsey, we have a large mortgage on the house."

"How much is that mortgage?"

"$6,000."

"That's about a third of what the house is worth, is it?"

"No, no. The mortgage is more than the price we paid for the house."

"You mean to say you've got your house mortgaged for more than it's worth?"

SOUTHERN REXALL MEN GO TO BIG CONVENTION

W. S. Elkin, Jr., Hopes to Bring 1914 Meet, With 3,000 Delegates, to Atlanta

Sixty druggists from Georgia and surrounding states in three special cars attached to the Southern's New York train left Atlanta Saturday morning at 11 o'clock for Boston to attend the convention of the International Rexall clubs. W. S. Elkin, Jr., of the local Rexall store, and president of the International Rexall clubs, headed the party and declares he will bring the next Rexall convention to Atlanta.

The convention opens on August 18 and endures four days. Fully 2,000 of the 7,000 Rexall stockholders scattered over the English-speaking world are expected to attend.

Mr. Elkin was last year elected president of the Rexall clubs over 2,000 druggists who attended the convention. With the help of the other sixty druggists from the southeast he is hopeful of obtaining the 1914 convention for Atlanta.

BIGGEST IN WORLD.

The International Rexall clubs are composed of the stockholders of the United Drug company, probably the largest manufacturing and sales drug company in the world. It is run on the co-operative plan.

In speaking of the drug company and the convention, Mr. Elkin said Saturday: "The United Drug company started in 1903 with forty big retailers as members, and its business was confined to one building. Today it is operating laboratories, factories, and warehouses throughout the United States and Great Britain and requires a total of over twenty-five acres of floor space for the manufacture of the exclusive Rexall products.

"Our convention is going to be a humdinger. You see the United Drug company is purely co-operative. Since there is only one Rexall druggist in each community, we are partners and not competors. When I get to Boston I will meet and be on friendly terms with druggists whom I have met at other Rexall conventions, and I will be coming to this meeting from all over the world. During the meeting we will criticise methods and offer suggestions.

"To realize what good fellows these druggists are you ought to see us when we 'Get Together,' as we say. Fuller a good time. This year we will have parties, motor trips, luncheons, smokers, banquets and a big field day at Santasiad Beach. I'll come back home feeling a new man, and with brand new business ideas that will prove a benefit to the people of Atlanta."

The following are of the party that left Atlanta to attend the convention:

W. S. Elkin, Jr., W. S. Elkin, Sr., of Atlanta; J. R. Cates, of Newnan, Ga.; E. J. Ward, Ellisville, Miss.; W. R. Ardrey, Fort Mills, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bloodworth, Perry, Fla.; J. M. WIFE SAYS SHE FIRED BLANKS AT HUSBAND

Declares He Had Struck Her and That Coffee-Spilling Accounts Are Wrong

A young woman, who gives her name as Miss Mary Brown, of 11 Hull street, declares that the story published about Mrs. L. P. Gray, of 12 Hull street, shooting at her husband Friday, do Mrs. Gray a grave injustice.

Miss Brown, who says that she arrived at the residence just after the shots were fired, declares that Mrs. Gray only fired a pistol and fired at her husband after he had struck her, and that by using the pistol Mrs. Gray was only protecting herself and her little baby.

Besides says Miss Brown, Mrs. Gray was only shooting blank cartridges, with no intention of really injuring her husband.

According to the police reports of the affair Mrs. Gray fired three shots at her husband because he spilled coffee on the tablecloth.

ATLANTA READERS MAKE GOOD USE OF LIBRARY

In her report to the trustees of the Carnegie library Friday afternoon, Miss Katherine H. Woodin, librarian, reported at the meeting that there were 25,000 volumes distributed last month and that 600 new members had been admitted. The success of the night reading rooms was attested to through virtue of the fact that 3,000 periodicals had been taken advantage of the innovation.

The "Uncle Remus" branch of the library will be opened in September.

The trustees confirmed the appointment of Miss Mary Malone as an assistant to succeed Miss Alberta Malone, who has resigned. The resignation of Miss Emily Hemp was accepted. She goes to El Paso, Tex., to accept a place there. She was succeeded by Miss Willie Williams.

Cigarette Calls Out Fire Department and Rouses Chief's Anger

A cigarette thrown from a window of the Empire building was responsible for calling out a hook and ladder company and several fire engines, and caused much excitement in Marietta street near Five Points at noon Saturday.

The lighted cigarette fell on a gutter of the Williams hotel, 15 1-3 Marietta street, among trash and bird nests and started a smouldering fire.

The fire alarm was turned in. Hose were unlimbered, the ladder thrown to the roof of the hotel, and the firemen to find a fire that one bucket of water could easily quench.

As a result of the blaze Fire Chief W. B. Cummings wishes to call the attention of the city fathers to the way automobiles are allowed to be parked on the streets. Fulton, Whitehall and other main thoroughfares of the city, congesting traffic so that the fire department is hopelessly handicapped.

Chief Cummings makes his kick emphatic and thinks an ordinance should be passed relieving this congestion.

Chief Cummings says the life-saving truck had to be stopped in the middle of the street, because parked autos and other vehicles prevented getting near the curb.

In case a fire gains much headway, the chief says, there is great danger of the gasoline in the cars igniting, thus cutting the firemen off.

FAMILY DENIES GRUBB COMMITTED SUICIDE

Claimed That Aged Contractor Merely Took Overdose of Heart Stimulant

Emphatic denial is made by the family of Andrew J. Grubb, building contractor, of North Decatur, living at 1508 DeKalb avenue, to the report that he intentionally took his life Thursday when he took an overdose of strychnine in what Mr. Grubb was accustomed to take the stimulant for his weak hart, and that he died from an overdose.

Mr. Grubb died alone in his home with his nineteen-year-old son, Harvey, when his death occurred about 11 o'clock. The other members of the family were attending the funeral of Mrs. Sophia Smith, Mr. Grubb's sister.

An autopsy was carried out for the first time in two weeks and visited a nearby drug store, where he bought a quantity of strychnine. He said he wanted the poison to kill a dog.

Mr. Grubb returned home, and shortly after his son, Harvey, heard groans and found his father writhing on the bed. The Grady hospital ambulance was called, but Mr. Grubb died before it arrived.

Mr. Grubb is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Grubb; one daughter, Mrs. H. Pierce, and four sons, William, Jack, Claude and Harvey Grubb. The funeral services will be held from the chapel of H. M. Patterson & Son Sunday afternon at 2 o'clock, Rev. A. J. Holderby, pastor of the Moore Memorial church, officiating.

REQUISITION GRANTED FOR YOUTH LEAVING PEN

David J. Steinberg Must Return to Arkansas After Completing Sentence Here

David J. Steinberg, of New York, the young man just released from the federal prison in Atlanta, after serving a year for violation of the white slave law, must go back to Arkansas to answer to a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Governor Slaton Friday afternon granted the requisition of the governor of Arkansas for Steinberg.

Sheriff Sam D. Crawford, of Union county, Ark., came to Atlanta after the prisoner. He stated that the charge against Steinberg was of several years' standing, and that the authorities of his state had waited for the young man to complete his term in the federal prison before presenting the requisition.

The charges against Steinberg are said to grow out of his purchase of furs which he paid for in worthless checks and drafts.

While Thomas J. Alford Was Working Here, His Home in Memphis Burned

During his absence from Memphis his home has burned, and it is necessary for him to sign papers before the insurance can be collected.

LATE MORGAN PIERCE IS HIGHLY PRAISED

The death of young Morgan Pierece, of New York, a few weeks ago, brought forth comment from the New York Journal of Commerce praising the young man in the highest terms. Morgan Pierece was the son of Jefferson Pierce, who was a former resident of Atlanta, and a well known insurance mon of New York city.

Morgan Pierce, said the Journal of Commerce, graduated from the High School of Commerce in 1909 and entered the employ of Frank & Michaels. This firm rapidly promoted him until at the time of his death he held a position of trust with them.

SKYLIGHT BURGLARS INVADE CLOTHING STORE

Skylight burglars are the latest thing the police have to contend with, according to officers at the station on Decatur *street. Men are supposed to have en-*tered the Scotch Woolen Mills store at 107 Peachtree street early Friday morning in that manner and made away with several suits of clothes.

A rope was found hanging from the skylight, but the escape is supposed to have been made through a back door which was found open. Detectives think a ladder was used to reach the roof and thus an entrance effected through the glass top.

NEW INSURANCE ACT PRAISED BY STEWART

Fulton Tax Collector Declares Law Will Prevent Fraud Against Companies

Commenting on the bill of Senator *Bush, giving more power to the insur-*ance commissioner, which was passed at the session of the general assembly just ended, Tax Collector A. P. Stewart calls attention to its most salient features, declaring the measure a most important piece of legislation.

Mr. Stewart said:

"One of the most important acts of the legislature of 1913 was the passage of senate bill No. 24, introduced by Senator Bush. The purpose of this bill is to better the status of industrial, health, accident and life insurance in Georgia, and to eliminate from the business an element of graft and boodling on the part of unscrupulous persons. It is intended to put this business upon a sound basis and to increase the powers of the insurance commissioner over that business. It makes it unlawful for any person to misrepresent the solvency of an industrial company for the purpose of selling a policy therein. It also makes it unlawful for any person to misrepresent the terms of the policy.

"The bill makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine and imprisonment, for any physician or other person to make a misrepresentation or false statement of any material fact or thing in any claim or certificate, as to the death, disability or health condition of a policyholder, for the purpose of defrauding any company or association.

"It gives the insurance commissioner the power to issue subpenas to agents or other persons to appear before hearings had him; the authority to revoke the license of irresponsible agents, thus giving the commissioner the right to investigate the standing and character of any agent against whom complaint is made.

"It further makes it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, for any person to act as agent for such company without having procured license therefor. The purpose of this bill is to make industrial insurance a real insurance, to strengthen the hand of the insurance commissioner, to drive out irresponsible agents, who misrepresent the standings of the companies for the purpose of defrauding policyholders, and also for the purpose of furnishing means of punishing those who collude with dishonest policyholders for the purpose of defrauding companies."

4,000,000 Dead Flies Bring 5 Cents a Pint

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—Four million dead house flies were bought at the rate of 5 cents a pint today by the Harrisburg Civic club, this being the close of the swatting prize contest this season.

The number is only a fraction of those killed as a result of the civic club's campaign.

Ella Marie Kreidler won first prize of $2 for the largest score, turning in 74 1-2 pints, for which she got $3.75, besides her prize. Second prize of $1 was won by David Peters with 21 pints.

More than 218 pints of flies were turned in.

CREMATORY READY TO BEGIN GARBAGE WORK

City In Remarkably Healthful Condition as Disposal Plant Is Completed

After Monday all dumping grounds throughout the city will be abandoned and garbage will be dumped only at the crematory.

The Southern Incinerator company notified the board of health Friday that all three units of the plant are now complete, and that the crematory is ready to take care of all garbage from every part of the city.

The board agreed to pay the Destructor company $250 per car for operating the crematory until it is officially turned over to the city. This will be after the necessary tests and the evaporating tests are made.

The regular monthly report of the board showed that the city is in remarkably healthful condition. Only two cases of diphtheria were reported; four of scarlet fever; one of meningitis, and none of smallpox.

JUDGE MUST DECIDE IF THIS IS SAME OFFENSE

ROME, Ga., Aug. 16.—Judge John H. Reece, of the local city court, has a knotty question before him, and one that will have a bearing on future cases of the same kind. Gifford Kennedy, colored, has sued out habeas corpus proceedings to keep from paying a fine of $250 or serving a four months' sentence in the chain gang. He was convicted in the superior court of selling liquor and was sentenced to eight months. Upon the completion of the sentence he was to pay a fine of $250 or serve four months additional. He has served his eight months, and has gone before Judge Reece to keep from paying a fine or serving an additional four months. His attorneys raise the point that a man cannot be put in jeopardy twice for the same offense, and that to convict an additional fine or alternative sentence is illegal. The case is being watched with considerable interest by members of the Rome bar, as it will establish a precedent for similar cases.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR WILL GIVE RECEPTION

The Christian Endeavor society of the First Presbyterian church held its weekly meeting Wednesday evening. The topic discussed under the leadership of Hugh A. Warner was "Temperance." Interesting talks were made and clippings were read on the subject.

The society will give a reception to Dr. H. K. Walker, who has just returned from his vacation, Wednesday evening at the Sunday school rooms. Dr. Walker will speak on the "World's Christian Endeavor Convention," which he attended in Los Angeles.

POLICE OFFICIAL HURT BY UNBROKEN HORSE

In an attempt to ride an unbroken saddle horse recently purchased by the city, Captain A. J. Poole, of the Atlanta police department, narrowly escaped serious injury Friday morning, when the animal reared and fell heavily on the officer.

Captain Poole sustained several bruises from his fall and was struck a number of times by the hoofs of his mount, but escaped dangerous injury. He was able to report for duty in the evening.

GEORGIA AND HER POLITICS

Major A. H. Ulm Is Just Now A Student of "Dogology"

Major A. H. Ulm, executive secretary to Governor Slaton, is at present engaged in an exhaustive study of the science of "dogology," with a view of determining the qualification of Georgia canines as detectives.

A. M. Brookfield, His British Majesty's consul at Savannah, has written Major Ulm for information respecting the utilization in Georgia, of dogs for the detection of crime and the apprehension of criminals.

This information is sought for the government of New South Wales, which is preparing to enlist the aid of dogs in ferreting out and tracking down all kinds of criminals. Consul Brookfield writes Major Ulm that he has been instructed by the British ambassador to America to obtain all possible data on the subject.

So far Major Ulm has not been able to find any dogs of detective instincts, but he has written Consul Brookfield that bloodhounds have been found of great advantage in tracking criminals.

Period for Which Governor May Appoint U. S. Senators Extended

The law passed by the recent legislature relative to the filling of vacancies caused by the death, resignation or failure to qualify of United States senators from Georgia allows the governor to appoint until the next succeeding federal election. Federal elections are held but every two years. Prior to the adoption of the new law the governor could appoint a senator's successor to serve only until the next meeting of the general assembly. Should a senatorial vacancy occur now the day after a federal election the governor's appointee will hold office for two years.

*The new law was enacted as a re-*sult of the federal statute which provides for the direct election of United States senators by the people. This statute left it to the legislatures to say when an election shall be held to fill unexpired terms of senators.

A bill passed that makes elections shall be held sixty days after a vacancy occurs failed to pass the general assembly.

State's Pure Food and Drugs Act Has Been Materially Strengthened.

A bill passed by the legislature has added materially to the strength and value of the state's pure food and drugs act. The bill requires that every drug sold in the state must be truthfully and accurately labeled. All labels, wrappers and printed matter accompanying drugs must tell the truth about its therapeutic effect and must also set forth the ingredients of the drug. No label can claim that a drug is a cure unless it is in fact an absolute cure.

Another section of this bill provides that on and after September 1, 1914, all packages of drugs sold in any character or kind, must be labeled as to weight, measure or count, and the labels must tell the truth.

Georgia Teachers to Get Part of Their Pay Within Ten Days.

A bill passed by the legislature public school teachers of Georgia will be paid the first installment on their 1913 salaries within the next time during the past thirty years that this has occurred. There have been so late in getting a portion of their salaries for a current year.

On Friday afternoon Governor Slaton executed the notes upon which six Atlanta national banks are to lend the state $475,000. This money will be in the state treasury either Saturday or Monday, and the governor declares that every penny of it will go to the teachers.

Allopath Examiners to be Reappointed on New Board.

Announcement has been made by Governor Slaton that the five allopathic physicians composing the present regular state board of medical examiners will be reappointed to serve on the new composite board of medical examiners created by the last legislature.

Ever since the new board was created Governor Slaton has been besieged with applications from doctors who wish *to be appointed on it. He takes the posi-*tion that the intent of the new law is not to favor in the slightest degree any one school, but rather to better regulate the practice of medicine in the state.

Besides the five present allopathic board, who will get places on the new board, are: Dr. F. M. Ridley, LaGrange; Dr. Charles T. Nolan, Marietta; Dr. F. D. Patterson, Cuthbert; Dr. N. Peterson, Tifton, and Dr. J. W. Palmer, Valley.

The new board will have ten members, five allopaths, three eclectics and two homeopaths.

WOMEN JURORS THINK DEEPLY, SAYS JUDGE

When Men Jurors Complain of Slowness, Judge Attributes It to Thought

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—Women as jurors are more deliberate than men, County Judge Owens announced today, in explaining a change in the procedure of hearing insanity cases. For two consecutive weeks Judge Owens has named women on a jury to consider the cases of women and children, and several complaints were made that the women have been too slow. The men jurors, who decide all other cases, asserted they were kept waiting too long.

Judge Owens altered the system permitting the women to sit last and insisted that the change must not be construed as a reflection upon women's competency as a juror.

"It is just the reverse," asserted the court. "It demonstrates that women are giving the thought needed in judging insane cases."

MACON POLICE CHIEF WILL RESIGN OFFICE

MACON, Ga., Aug. 16.—Police Chief W. B. Chapman has made the positive statement that he will not be a candidate for any public office under the next city administration, regardless of who is elected. He says that he desires to retire to private life at the end of the present administration, next December, and never again will he accept a public office. He has served as police chief of Macon for the past four years. It is now reported that if Bridges Smith, candidate for next mayor, is elected, Lieutenant John Davis will be nominated police chief. Mr. Smith declares that he has not yet decided who will be placed in the office provided he is elected.

COMMITTEE LUNCHEON WILL BOOST EXHIBIT

Leading Merchants and Manufacturers Invited to Dine With Commerce Chamber

The Manufacturers' committee which has charge of the plan to establish a manufacturers' exhibit in the chamber of commerce building, will give a luncheon Tuesday at 1 o'clock at the Hotel Ansley to which the leading merchants and manufacturers have been invited.

The success of their proposed exhibit depends upon the co-operation of the manufacturers, and the committee is extremely desirous of securing that of all.

Quite a number have already been signed up, but more are needed, and the committee, of which Louis Mayson is chairman, requests that others hasten to give in their signatures.

One hundred and fifty manufacturers are being asked to display their products which will be advertised and exploited in an energetic manner by the Atlanta Manufacturers' exposition.

It is part of the program to employ a competent secretary who will be in constant attendance and explain to visitors and merchants visiting the show just what is being made here and to put the perspective buyer immediately in touch with the manufacturer. It is also a part of the program to frequently bring the Atlanta public into the Exhibit building so that they will know what is being made at home and will be led to patronize home industries to the fullest extent.

As an evidence of the growth of this sentiment, the Retail Grocers' association has decided to set aside one day in the week to exploit Atlanta-made food products which should bring all the manufacturers of these products to the building so that our own people could see what is made here and what they can buy.

City Would Collect For Waterless Sewer

Can the city collect money for sewer laid on streets where there is no water? The question came up before the sewer committee Saturday in discussing resources of the curing of some sewers.

James L. Mayson, city attorney, says that the city can collect for the sewers laid on streets without water, but Mayor Woodward Saturday declared that the city could not collect unless the property owners had connected therewith.

He said that the committee must not count on money from such uncertain sources, and that it should plan its expenditures only when the money was in hand.

"And there's one thing certain," said the mayor, "no more appropriations to lay sewers on streets where there is no water come to me, I shall veto them, unless it is for a necessary drainage from other points."

Up to date this year the city has spent $80,000 on sewerage and of that amount approximately $28,000 has been collected and $52,000 remains uncollected.

THIEVES GET $50,000 IN JEWELS FROM GIRL

Accomplice Talked While Sneak Thief Substituted Bag for Jewel Sack

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Jewelry worth $50,000 was stolen from a hotel in Llandudne, a watering place in north Wales, yesterday. The thieves escaped in an automobile.

The gems were owned by a jeweler, who exhibited them in a showcase at the hotel. They were in charge of a girl, who brought them from a bank every day in a bag. On arriving yesterday she put the bag down for a moment on the floor inside the case. A man stepped to her and she turned to answer. A few seconds later she found another bag substituted for the one containing the jewels. When she turned again to where the man who had spoken to her had been standing, there was no one in sight.

Atlanta Women Vote At Council Meeting And Win Their Case

Women may not have the suffrage in Georgia, but when they want a voice in the government of Atlanta, they get it by actual vote. This statement may be substantiated by any member of the street committee of council who was present at the meeting Friday afternoon.

At that time, for the first time in the history of the city, women actually voted to determine a question. Of course some legal minded individual may quibble over the validity of the vote, but that won't alter the fact that women voted.

Of course the reason was that they were pretty and charming, and stated their wants prettily. It was over the question of changing the name of McDaniel street to Oxford Terrace. Miss Susie Well, formerly a teacher in the city schools, wanted the name to read McDaniel street; but the opposition wanted it Oxford Terrace. Being shrewd judges of the nature masculine, the members of the opposition enlisted the sympathies of about 20 of the prettiest women they could find living on the street, and brought them before the street committee to plead for the new name.

When they got through it was plainly to be seen what the action of the committee would be.

The motion was put, and the chairman said "Everybody in favor say aye."

Up went the hands of the committee, and up went the hands of the thirty women, also registering their vote.

Their votes were registered, too, and carried with us the name of Oxford Terrace testifies.

OFFICERS SEARCH FOR DROWNED BOY'S BODY

Four-Year-Old Lad Falls Into Creek While Fishing and Is Swept Into City Sewer

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Four-year-old Lee Petrelecize fell from a rowboat into Peyton Pond creek, Jamaica bay, late yesterday, and a few minutes later the incoming tide swept him into a big sewer far under the city, where he was lost.

A throng of people watched until late last night the spectacular efforts of various city departments to find the body. Fish nets were placed at the outlet of the sewer and a battery of searchlights was played upon the water, but to no avail. The sewer stretches across the meadows a mile and a half and is almost level, so that tide waters really extend up the entire distance. If the receding tide does not carry the body, men will enter the sewer to search for it.

Mrs. Mary Petrelecize, mother of the lad, when she was informed of the accident, ran to her home a mile and a half distant, ran frantically the entire way to the spot, where she dropped from exhaustion and is in a serious condition.

MILLIONAIRE AND WIFE BATTLE FOR DAUGHTER

Wealthy Cuban Seeks Writ of Habeas Corpus in Atlanta Court for Daughter

A legal fight that each says will be fought to the last ditch has commenced between J. E. Barlow, millionaire, of Havana, Cuba, and Mrs. Edith P. Barlow, of 219 West Peachtree, his former wife, over the custody of their ten-year-old daughter, Madeline.

Mrs. Barlow now has possession of the child, having gained custody through an order issued by the ordinary's court of Stewart county, where the child had been awarded to Mr. Barlow upon his petition for divorce from Mrs. Edith Barlow was granted.

The next step in the fight for custody of the girl will take place next Wednesday when Mr. Barlow's petition for a writ of habeas corpus presented by Attorney Burton Smith will be heard by Judge George L. Bell.

Mr. Barlow was in Havana when the Stewart county ordinary court's order was issued on August 12. He had left the child with his present wife at his home in Lumpkin, and when he was informed of Mrs. Edith Barlow's action he immediately caught the first boat for Atlanta.

Mr. Barlow is a native of Stewart county. He acquired his fortune in real estate deals in Havana.

Lightning Plays Queer Tricks With Residents of Rome

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ROME, Ga., Aug. 16.—Lightning yesterday almost caused the death of Mrs. W. S. Wolfe, who resides on Sixth avenue. Mrs. Wolfe was using an electric iron when the bolt ran down the line and entered her body through the iron. She was unable to release her grasp for a time, but finally succeeded and fell unconscious. Physicians worked for an hour before she recovered consciousness, and she was unable to speak for the rest of the afternoon.

Another freak of the storm occurred at the home of H. D. Hill when the Hill went to a hydrant to draw a glass of water. She touched the faucet and came in contact with the electricity as it came down the stream of water and broke out the bottom of the glass as cleanly as a glass cutter could have done. Mrs. Hill did not even feel the shock.

MRS. RAE FRANK TAKES STAND IN SON'S DEFENSE

Identifies Letter Written By Frank to N. Y. Kinfolks On the Day of the Murder

By Asking Pencil Factory Forelady If She Saw Frank Talking to Mary Phagan, Solicitor Dorsey Indicates That He Has Witnesses Who May Furnish Further Sensational Testimony Along This Line

Mrs. Rae Frank, mother of Leo M. Frank, the accused factory superintendent, took the witness chair Friday afternoon in the defense of her boy and was on the stand when trial adjourned at 5:45 o'clock until 9 o'clock Saturday. Mrs. Frank testified as to a letter which was written by her son on the day of the murder of Mary Phagan, addressed to M. Frank, the accused's uncle, and received in New York several days later. The letter was admitted as evidence but was not read to the jury. Its contents told of the Memorial Day parade and of grand opera closing in Atlanta. A striking paragraph in the letter was the accused's comment that nothing startling had happned in Atlanta since his uncle left.

Attorney Reuben R. Arnold, for the defense, announced after court adjourned that the defense would put on about 100 more witnesses and that it would require at least two more days for it to conclude its evidence. This is taken to mean that the accused will not occupy the witness stand until possibly Wednesday.

By one question asked of Miss Mary Burton, forelady of the polishing room, Solicitor Dorsey Friday afternoon indicated that he had witnesses who would testify, if permitted, that Frank made advances to Mary Phagan, the murdered girl, two wooks beforethe crime. He asked the witness: "Did you ever hear that Frank got Mary Phagan in a corner two weeks before she was murdered and that Frank called on the telephone and asked for Mr. Ursenbach and that he was told that both were out and he left word that he would be unable to attend the ball game. Another negress testified that she delivered the message to Mrs. Ursnbach when the latter returned home.

Roy Bauer continued on the stand under cross-examination when court reconvened at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

"Whom have you talked to since you left the stand at noon?"

"I've talked to Mr. Garst, to Mr. Rosser, Mr. Arnold, Mr. Leo Gottheimer, Mr. Big Montag."

"How long did you talk to Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold?"

"Two or three minutes."

"Where did you talk to them?"

"At Mr. Arnold's office."

"How did you happen to go there?"

"I drove Mr. Montag over there in his car."

"Do you drive Mr. Montag's car for him?"

"Yes, while he's away I usually drive Mrs. Montag when she wants to go anywhere."

"What did you tell Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold?"

"I gave them a written statement as to the Saturdays I went to the pencil factory."

"What did that written statement contain?"

"The facts that you have questioned me about."

"Did you tell them anything in addition to what you have told me here?"

"No, I don't think I told them anything."

"Well, how about the third Saturday you went to the pencil factory?"

"Well, I went there in the afternoon, and Mr. Frank was there, and I asked him about Mr. Schiff."

"How long did you stay?"

DOESN'T REMEMBER NOW.

"I don't remember how long I stayed."

"Did you look at any samples of pencils?"

"I don't remember."

"What enables you to remember the first and second Saturdays and not remember the third?"

"I just happened to remember the things that I told you about on those Saturdays."

Questioned very closely as to his visit to the pencil factory on the fourth Saturday in January, the witness stated only that he went there, saw Mr. Frank at his usual place at work, inquired about Schiff, and did not remember how long he stayed.

"Why is it, Mr. Bauer, that you remembered before dinner the minutest details of what took place at the factory on the first and second Saturdays in January, and now since dinner you can't remember anything in particular that took place on the third and fourth Saturday?"

"I have no special reason, Mr. Dorsey. I just undertook to tell you as much as I could remember especially about the first and second Saturdays."

"Well, you may come down," said Mr. Dorsey.

GOTTHEIMER TESTIFIES.

Harry Gottheimer, a traveling salesman for Montag Brothers, and also for the Imperial Hotel, was the next witness. He said that generally he makes a year's work for the Carnival Pencil company, between February 1 and April and between October 1 and November.

Gottheimer testified that he saw Frank at Montag Brothers on the morning of April 26 and stated that Mr. Frank asked him to come over there that afternoon to talk to him on a business matter and that he promised to come.

Attorney Hooper objected on the ground that the statement was self-serving, but in time it was allowed to remain in the record.

On cross-examination by Solicitor Dorsey, the witness said that Miss Lizzie Hall saw him speak to Frank and that it was some time after 10 o'clock in the morning. He denied that Frank had anything about a baseball engagement with his broth-in-law. The witness declared that he does not belong to the Coal Barth.

Emma Bibb, negress, chambermaid for the Schiff family, was called, and testified that about 10:30 on the morning of Memorial day some one whose voice sounded like that of a boy, called over the telephone and told her to tell Mr. Schiff that Mr. Frank wanted him to come to the office at once.

SCHIFF HARD TO WAKE.

She characterized Herbert Schiff as a hard of waking," and said that after she had waked him he went back to sleep. She was called to the phone again and the same voice repeated the message. She heard the clock strike 11 as she went upstairs to wake Schiff the second time, she said.

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness. She said that she had been working for the Schiff family for seven years. She said that sometimes Schiff sleeps on holidays, but he usually sleeps just till she wakes him. He is "mighty hard of waking." There was laughter when the solicitor put this question and it was answered:

"Why do you remember about this particular Thanksgiving day?"

"Because it was Memorial day," answered the witness.

She did not remember what Schiff did on Christmas day or on other holidays about which the solicitor questioned her. The witness steadily declared, despite many questions, that she had talked to no one about what she was going to testify, except Attorney Herbert Haas. She said that Mr. Haas came out to the residence during the first week of the trial and "suspended" her to come to court, and she spoke to him about it. Mr. Haas was the only person who had mentioned it to her, she said.

CORROBORATION WITNESS.

Annie Nix, negress, maidservant of Mrs. Ursenbach, was the next witness.

"Do you remember Memorial Day, Saturday, April 26?"

"Yes, sir."

"Do you remember receiving a telephone message from Mr. Frank?"

"Yes, sir, about half post 1 o'clock."

She continued to testify that Frank asked if Mr. Ursenbach was there, and when she replied no, he asked for Mrs. Ursenbach. She told him they were both out, and Frank then told her to tell Mr. Ursenbach that he would be unable to go to the baseball game that afternoon. She said she told Frank that she would give Mr. Ursenbach the message if he returned before she left, and that if he did not return she would go to Mr. Ursenbach and tell her to tell him. She left before Mr. Ursenbach got home, and she left the message with Mrs. Ursenbach.

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness.

"How long have you worked at the Ursenbach home?"

"Two years."

"What time did you leave there that Saturday evening?"

"Some time about 1 o'clock."

"You answered the doorbell all the time Sunday, didn't you?"

"I don't remember."

"Who was there Sunday?"

"Mr. Marcus and Mrs. Marcus and the boy and Mr. Frank and his wife."

"When did they come?"

"Right after breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Frank always come about then."

"What did Frank bring with him that mornins?"

"I don't know. I didn't see anything" "You let him in, didn't you?"

"No sir, I didn't let him in."

FRANK LOOKED NATURAL.

She testified that Frank looked like he always did; that he laughed and chatted with the rest of them, and asked her for a drink of water.

"He seemed even better natured than usual, didn't he?" asked the solicitor.

"No, sir."

"Don't you know he wasn't there that morning, and that he didn't come until after 2 o'clock?"

"No, sir, he was there that morning."

"Didn't you hear him mention the murder?"

"No, sir."

"Wasn't that what they were laughing about?"

"No, sir."

"Do you put up Mr. Ursenbach's clothes?"

"Yes, sir, if there's any laying around I put 'em up."

DIDN'T SEE RAINCOAT.

"Did you see his raincoat that Saturday?"

"No, sir, I didn't notice it."

"Did Mr. Frank wear a raincoat there?"

"I don't know, sir. I didn't see it."

"When did you know you were going to be subpoenaed to testify?"

"The Monday the trial began."

"Whom did you tell what you were going to swear to?"

"Nobody."

"Didn't anybody ever ask you about it, Mr. Haas, or Mr. Rosser, or Mr. Arnold or anybody?"

"No, sir."

"Did you get on the stand and swear without telling anybody what you were going to swear to?"

"Nobody never asked me what I was going to swear."

"You and Minola McKnight are pretty thick, aren't you?"

"No, sir."

"Well, you run together, don't you?"

"No, sir, I don't run with nobody but myself."

"Well, you go to her house frequently, don't you?"

"Sometimes I go to hers, and sometimes she comes up to mine."

"How far do you live from Minola?"

"About five blocks."

MR. ARNOLD OBJECTS.

Attorney Arnold objected to the questions. Solicitor Dorsey argued their admissability as showing interest on the part of the witness. Attorney Hooper said that it was admissable inasmuch as Judge Roan had allowed other testimony approaching this same point. Attorney Rosser retorted, "I wish we could decide these legal questions without my brother reminding your honor of something you have done already." Judge Roan finally ordered the questions stricken.

The negress testified that she had been making $4 a week for two years, ever since she commenced working for the Ursenachs.

"Why, you've been talking to Minola today, haven't you?" demanded the solicitor. "You've been talking to her upstairs in the witness room, haven't you?"

"No, sir, Minola's not up there today."

"Well, you spoke to her somewhere today, didn't you?"

"Yes, sir, I saw her at Mrs. Selig's. I ate dinner there."

"Who else spoke 'to you there?"

"Well, everybody there spoke to me."

The witness was excused.

DIDN'T SEE CONLEY.

Truman McCrary, a negro drayman, the next witness, testified that he did regular hauling for the factory on or more prior to May 1 for the National Pencil factory. He testified that he hauled for the factory every other Saturday up to 12 o'clock, the hour when the factory shut down, and sometimes on Saturday afternoons. The point of his testimony as developed by Attorney Arnold's questioning was that he never found the front door locked on Saturday afternoons, that the office closed on Saturday afternoons, and that he always found either Frank or Herbert Schiff or both of them at work in the office on Saturday afternoons. He testified further that he remembered going to the pencil factory on Memorial Day, in the morning about 7:30 o'clock and again just before 12 o'clock, and that he did not see Jim Conley there.

He was cross-examined at considerable length by Solicitor Dorsey, but the examination developed nothing of any consequence, except possibly the fact that his testimony that on Memorial Day boxes were piled high on the first floor in the front of the building. The solicitor emphasized further the negro's testimony that he had hauled for the factory on other Saturday afternoons and not on every Saturday afternoon.

Isaac Haas, of 179 Washington street, a manufacturer, and cousin-in-law of Attorney Arneld, put a little humor into the afternoon proceedings. Mr. Haas was called to the stand to identify a letter of the defendant and declared it to be excellent.

Attorney Arnold then said, "It has been testified here that your phone rang Sunday morning after the tragedy. Did it wake you?"

The witness answered that it did not, but that it waked his wife, who called him and took a message.

Attorney Hooper on cross-examination asked "I understand you to say that the telephone did wake you?"

No, it waked my wife and my wife waked me."

"There's a good deal of difference between your wife and the telephone, isn't there?" asked Solicitor Dorsey.

"I should remark," said Mr. Haas, as he left the stand. "A big difference in expense and severity."

ARTHUR AND WALTER PRIDE.

Arthur Pride, colored, was the next witness.

"Which are you, Arthur Pride or Walter rPide?"

"I'm both," returned the witness. "Some calls me one, an' some calls me de yuther."

The negro testified that he had been employed at the factory five years; that from July 12 to January 1 he was in the basement every Saturday afternoon and that he stayed until 4:30 o'clock; and that his duties took him from the basement to every building of the business.

The negro declared that he never saw any women call there to see Frank, Conley and Frank being the only ones watching. He said he probably would have seen Conley if Conley had been there. On cross-examination he said employees often used the back stairs from the metal room to the third floor. He said that the elevator went smoothly, and that you'd never know it was going.

He could hear it on any floor in the building.

"How long have you known Jim Conley?"

"Three years."

"What is his reputation for truth and veracity?"

The witness said he did not know what the attorney meant.

"Do you know his character—his general character?"

CAN'T BELIEVE CONLEY.

"Yas, sir, it's bad," said the negro. He continued that he would not believe Jim Conley on oath.

Attorney Hooper cross-examined the negro.

"When did you make up your mind that you wouldn't believe Jim on oath?"

"Four months and five months ago, de whole family lied. I wouldn't believe any on 'em."

Answering further questions, the negro said that Jim had sold him a watch for $4.50, and that later had been arrested by the man from whom he got it on the installment plan. On the promise of Jim and his family to pay him, he let them have the watch back so as to enable them to go to jail. He declared he had never yet received the $4.50.

"Just not a high class negro like you, is he?"

"I ain't a high class negro, but I'm different grade from Jim Conley," was the witness. The witness admitted that he had never heard anybody else speak ill of Jim Conley. He said he did not know where the elevator generally is kept. He swore positively that if the machinery is not running, regardless of what else is going on in the building, the elevator is audible.

Mrs. E. H. Carson, mother of Miss Rebecca Carson and cousin-in-law of woman who also works in the pencil factory, testified that she has worked in the factory for three years.

"Have you ever seen blood spots on the floor around the ladies' room?"

"Yes, I've seen them."

"On the Friday before Memorial Day were you in the factory?"

"Yes, but I left about 12:45 o'clock."

"Were you back there Monday?"

"Yes."

"How long did you stay?"

"Until something after 9 o'clock."

"Was it Monday or Tuesday that you saw Jim Conley?"

"I saw him Tuesday."

FRANK INNOCENT, SAID JIM.

Mrs. Crrson testified she remarked to Jim, "They haven't got you yet, I see," and testified that on Wednesday about the same hour she repeated the observation to the negro, and that she saw him again on Thursday and made the same kind of remark. On Thursday, she said, Jim turned around and said "I ain't done nothing." "You know Mr. Frank never did that," the witness testified she said then to the negro. "And yet they've got him." The negro answered "No, Mr. Frank's just as innocent as you, and I know you is innocent."

Mrs. Carson testified she then said to Conley, "When they find the murderer of Mary Phagan, it will be that negro who was sitting down there in the entrance." When she made this remark, she said, Jim dropped his broom and disappeared and did not finish sweeping.

"Do you know the character of Leo M. Frank?" asked Mr. Arnold.

The witness answered yes, that it was good.

"How long have you known Conley?"

The witness did not know exactly.

"Do you know his character?"

"Yes, I know his character."

"What was his reputation for truth and veracity? What did people around the factory say about him?"

"Well, his character wasn't very good."

"Would you believe him on oath?"

"No, I wouldn't."

DON'T KNOW DAISY HOPKINS.

Solicitor Dorsey began the cross-examination.

"Were you working there when Mrs. Daisy Hopkins was there?" asked Mr. Dorsey.

"I don't know."

Mrs. Hopkins was brought in, and the witness failed to identify her. Mrs. Carson said she knew her daughters, who worked on the fourth floor, saw Frank nearly every day.

"Did you see him Monday?"

"No."

"Did you see him Tuesday?"

"Yes, I saw him on the fourth floor."

In answer to further questions by the solictor, the witness said Frank came up to the fourth floor between 9 and 11 o'clock and she had a conversation with him.

"What time Tuesday did you have a talk with Frank?"

"Between 9 and 11:30."

"Then Leo M. Frank and Conley were on your floor at the same hours Tuesday morning, were they?"

"Yes."

"Did you see Frank when he went over to Jim and whispered to him?"

"No, sir."

"Whom else did Frank talk to?"

"Well, my daughter."

"What did he say?"

FRANK SAID HE WAS GRIEVED.

"I was so disturbed. I don't know what he said. I was crying now. He said he was sorry that the little girl was killed, though, that it was a brutal murder."

"Did anybody else about the factory tell you they were sorry the little girl was killed?"

"Yes, there were lots of them."

"When did you see the blood spots in the dressing room?"

"Lord knows I can't tell you!"

"How big was the biggest spot of blood you ever saw there?"

"As big as the floor."

"What is there, now, that would cause girls to bleed in there and not on the stairway, for instance?"

"Well, it is dark on the stairs and you couldn't see it there."

The witness testified that she had seen blood on machines, in the aisles, in the toilet rooms, and at various other places, at various times. She referred to one girl who once had been hurt there, and the solictor asked her to fix the time. The witness was unable to do so, and Attorney Hooper and Solicitor Dorsey called on Herbert Haas for the record of the accidents at the factory. Mr Haas did not have it. At the request of counsel generally, the solicitor said "You promised me, gentlemen, you would have this here when I wanted it."

FUSSING LIKE SHE-BEARS.

Attorney Rosser spoke up. "Well, we've had to wait all day for papers and things like that, two or three times."

"I made a particular request for this, and you assured me I could have it when I wanted it."

"Let's quit this fussing," said Mr. Rosser. "You just quarrel like an old she-bear."

Mr. Arnold spoke up. "Yes, let's cut out gentlemen. We all sound like she-bears."

The jury went out for a short recess. When it returned the cross-examination of Mrs. Carson was resumed.

BLOOD SPOTS EVERYWHERE.

"Tell us where you ever saw blood, Mrs. Carson."

"In the dressing room, around the machines, in the aisles, and in the ladies' room."

"You say the biggest spot you ever saw was as large as the hand. Now tell us where you saw that."

"Near the garbage can on the fourth floor."

"You had no trouble recognizing that as blood?"

"No, not that spot."

"Did you ever smell the others?"

"I was always sure of it in the dressing room and in the aisles."

"Did you know his character—his general character?"

CAN'T BELIEVE CONLEY.

"Yes, sir, it's bad," said the negro. He continued that he would not believe Jim Conley on oath.

Attorney Hooper cross-examined the negro.

"When did you make up your mind that you wouldn't believe Jim on oath?"

"Four months and five months ago, de whole family lied. I wouldn't believe any on 'em."

Answering further questions, the negro said that Jim had sold him a watch for $4.50, and that later had been arrested by the man from whom he got it on the installment plan. On the promise of Jim and his family to pay him, he let them have the watch back so as to enable them to go to jail. He declared he had never yet received the $4.50.

"Just not a high class negro like you, is he?"

"I ain't a high class negro, but I'm different grade from Jim Conley," was the witness. The witness admitted that he had never heard anybody else speak ill of Jim Conley. He said he did not know where the elevator generally is kept. He swore positively that if the machinery is not running, regardless of what else is going on in the building, the elevator is audible.

Mrs. E. H. Carson, mother of Miss Rebecca Carson and cousin-in-law of woman who also works in the pencil factory, testified that she has worked in the factory for three years.

"Have you ever seen blood spots on the floor around the ladies' room?"

"Yes, I've seen them."

"On the Friday before Memorial Day were you in the factory?"

"Yes, but I left about 12:45 o'clock."

"Were you back there Monday?"

"Yes."

"How long did you stay?"

"Until something after 9 o'clock."

"Was it Monday or Tuesday that you saw Jim Conley?"

"I saw him Tuesday."

FRANK INNOCENT, SAID JIM.

Mrs. Crrson testified she remarked to Jim, "They haven't got you yet, I see," and testified that on Wednesday about the same hour she repeated the observation to the negro, and that she saw him again on Thursday and made the same kind of remark. On Thursday, she said, Jim turned around and said "I ain't done nothing." "You know Mr. Frank never did that," the witness testified she said then to the negro. "And yet they've got him." The negro answered "No, Mr. Frank's just as innocent as you, and I know you is innocent."

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness.

"You say you suspected Jim Conley as early as Monday, April 28. When did you tell about it?"

"I told Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold."

"Was that before or after Jim was arrested?"

"Afterward."

The solicitor asked the witness repeatedly if she knew at the time that Lee and Gant and Frank had been arrested. She said she did.

"Why didn't you report your suspicion of Conley then?"

"I don't know," said the witness.

"You knew the officials of the factory were anxious to find the murderer, didn't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, give one reason why you didn't report it."

"I don't know why, but I just thought it best not to."

"What made you suspect Conley?"

"He just looked guilty."

"Didn't you tell anybody else about it?"

"Mrs. Denham, Mrs. Johns and Miss McCord heard me when I accused him."

"Did you accuse Jim before or after the blood discovered?"

"Before."

"It was blood, was it?"

"I wouldn't swear it."

The witness continued that she had seen other stains that looked like that, near the dressing room, but couldn't say when.

"You say you spoke to Mr. Rosser and Mr. Arnold about this. Was it before Jim was arrested?"

"I don't know."

"Was it after the coroner's inquest?"

"I don't know."

"You say you never heard Frank talked about generally?"

"He was always a perfect gentleman toward me."

"Well, what did the other girls say about him?"

"I don't remember anything."

"You mean you've never heard him accused of any act of immorality?"

"No."

"You never heard of him watching the girls in the dressing room?"

"No."

"Nor slapping them as they went by?"

"No."

"Did you know Mary Phagan?"

"Yes."

"You never saw Frank talking to her?"

"No."

TRIED TO GET AWAY.

"You never heard of the time, two weeks before her death, that he had her in a corner, and she was begging him and trying to get away from him?"

"No."

"Come down."

Attorney Rosser addressed the court. "Your honor understands that it is not necessary for me to repeat objections that have been ruled upon, every time the subject comes up."

"Yes; there's no use repeating objections that have been ruled on," said the court.

Mrs. Dora Small, a machine woman on the fourth floor of the pencil factory, was the next witness. She testified that she was at home all day Memorial Day until 1:15, and then went down town. In answer to a question by Attorney Arnold, she said that she knew Jim Conley, and she replied to another question that on Tuesday she saw him with a newspaper in hand. He worried her by how an extra edition of the newspaper, she said; and after she had bought it, he bothered her until she gave it to him. She testified that later she saw him sitting on a box near the elevator reading it and others.

"How was his coat buttoned?" asked Attorney Arnold.

"He had on a Norfolk coat, and it was buttoned up tight, and up at his neck he had a pin in it. Before that he always wore his coat loose with the belt string hanging down."

"Did you ever see him wither he wore a shirt or not?"

The witness replied that on Tuesday morning she talked with the negro, and he remarked to her, "Mr. Frank's as innocent as you are," and added, "God knows I wosn't near the factory that day."

"Did he tell you how near the factory he was?" asked Mr. Arnold.

"No, sir."

"Did you see Frank talking to this negro Conley on Tuesday?"

"No, sir; nor on any other day."

"How long have you known Frank?"

"Five years."

In answer to other questions she said his general character is good. "I never met a more thorough gentleman in my life," she added.

"I am going to ask you a question that we are going to ask all the women on the fourth floor," said Attorney Arnold. "Have you ever been down in Frank's office after hours?"

"No, sir."

BELIEVES NO NEGRO. . . .

He asked the usual character questions then about Conley. In answer to the question as to whether she would believe Conley on oath, Mrs. Small replied: "I don't know a negro on earth that I'd believe on oath, or any other way."

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness. "Would you believe Snowball?" he asked.

"No. I wouldn't believe any negro."

"Then you wouldn't believe Newt Lee, or Pride, or anybody else who's skin is black? They're all on the same plane, are they?"

"Yes."

"Do you know Mrs. Daisy Hopkins?"

"No; I do not."

"You say you've never been around there on holidays or Saturday afternoons?"

"Yes, sir, I say that!"

"What is your salary now?"

"$6.50 a week."

"How long have you been getting that?"

"About four months. I got a 50 cent raise."

"Then you must have gotten it since the murder?"

"No, it was before the murder."

"Did you see Mrs. Carson on the fourth floor on Tuesday, April 29?"

"Yes, I see her every day in the year."

"Was she at work."

"Yes."

"On Wednesday, did she talk to Conley?"

"Not that I saw."

Mrs. Small testified that she had seen Conley also every day until his arrest. She said she had seen Frank talking to Miss Rebecca Carson about 9 o'clock on Tuesday morning, and that he later had O. K'd a ticket for her.

"Where was Conley when Frank was talking to Miss Carson?"

"He was standing near the elevator."

"When Frank finished talking with Miss Carson, how far toward the elevator did she go with him?"

"She went and got a drink."

Mrs Small testified that she didn't see Frank go toward Conley, and she said that he afterwards came down to the back of the fourth floor, where she was working. She swore that she had not seen Frank when he came up the stairs.

BOUGHT FOUR EXTRAS.

"Was Conley working when Frank came up?"

"He had a trash truck."

"How many extras did you buy on Tuesday?"

"I bought four before noon."

"How much does the elevator shake the building when it is running?"

"Anybody can notice it as the machinery is not running."

"What did you do yesterday afternoon?"

"I worked."

"How late?"

"Till about 5:30."

"When did you last consult with the attorneys in this case?"

"I don't know."

"Can't you remember how long?"

"No; I don't remember the date."

"How many consultations did you have with them?"

One."

"Didn't they take a written statement from you yesterday?"

"Yesterday? Why, no."

DOESN'T REMEMBER.

"You saw Jim Conley every day at the pencil factory, which was a usual occurrence; and you've held only one consultation with the lawyers in this murder case, which was an unusual occurrence. You can remember every thing Jim did on a given date, and yet you can't remember even approximately when you consulted with the lawyers. Now why is that?"

"Why, I just don't remember the date. That's all."

"Were you at the factory when Mr. Parrott held a conference with the employees?"

"Yes."

"Who was there?"

"Why, all the hands in the factory."

"Did you ever go back into the metal room on the second floor?"

"Yes, one day a crowd of us went down there to look at the blood spots."

"Was Mrs. Carson in the crowd?"

"Yes."

"Are you sure she was in the crowd?"

"Yes, I'm sure."

"Who else was in the crowd?"

"Why I remember Mrs. Thompson was one of them."

"What did you see?"

"We didn't see anything except where the floor had been chipped up, and we saw some white stuff on that looked like talcum powder where the girls had been powdering their faces."

"Did you see anything dark under the white spots?"

"No, sir."

"What makes you say Mrs. Carson went down there?"

"Why, they went back in the back end of the machine room where she worked on the fourth floor, and got her."

"Don't you know she didn't go down there with the crowd?"

"I know she did!"

"Don't you know she refused to go down there?"

"No, sir, she did not!"

This concluded the cross-examination, and as Mrs. Small gave her final answer there was suppressed laughter in the back of the court.

JULIA FUSS CALLED.

Miss Julia Fuss, 17 years old, who works on the fourth floor of the pencil factory, was the next witness. Mr. Arnold asked her the usual question as to whether she had ever had been down in Frank's office for drinks of water after work hours, the witness answering, "No, sir." She testified as to Frank's character, terming it very good.

In answer to questions by Attorney Arnold, she said that she knew Jim Conley and that she had a talk with him on Tuesday after the murder and on Wednesday after the murder.

She testified that she was sweeping on the fourth floor Tuesday morning, and that on the table beside her machine she had an extra edition of one of the newspapers.

Jim Conley asked her for the paper, she said, and she replied that he "looked grinned." On Wednesday morning, she testified, he came by her machine and asked her if the paper had come yet and she told him they had not.

She testified that she asked Jim what he thought of the case and he said he didn't know what to think of it. She testified that she then asked if he thought Mr. Frank committed the murder, and Jim answered: "No, ma'am; Mr. Frank's as innocent as the angels in heaven."

She swore that Conley's reputation is bad and that she would not believe him on oath.

DORSEY EXAMINES WITNESS.

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness.

Miss Fuss said that on Tuesday after the murder she went to the second floor, curious to see the blood spots where Mary Phagan was supposed to have been killed. It was a dark spot, she said, red like blood.

"In your opinion, what was it?"

"Paint," said the witness.

"How long after the murder did the defendant ask you about Frank's general character?"

"About a week."

"Did they ask you if you had heard anything against him or if you knew anything against him?"

"They asked me if I knew anything aainst him."

"Well, have you ever heard anything against him?"

"No, the crowd generally—no, they always spoke good of him."

"Why was it that you first said 'generally' and then said 'always'?"

"I just made a mistake."

"Aha!" said the solicitor. "You just made a mistake and caught yourself very quick."

"I object to that," said Mr. Rosser. "He insults every woman that comes on this witness stand."

Mr. Arnold echoed Mr. Rosser's objection, and then asked the court to declare the remarks improper. Judge Roan ruled that the attorney could ask the witness if she had caught herself in a mistake.

NEVER HEARD OF FAMILIARITY.

"You never heard of any familiarity of Frank's with any of the girls, or boys?"

"No."

(When was it Jim got the papers from you?"

"On Tuesday and Wednesday after the murder."

"Did it seem nervous then?"

"He always seemed to be nervous or half drunk."

"Did he arouse your suspicion?"

"Not until he began to read the papers, and grin and comment."

"Did he ever say anything against Frank?"

"No."

"He always stood up to Frank and wouldn't give him away, would he?"

Attorney Rosser objected to "would n't give him away," declaring it was a "dirty suggestion." Judge Roan ruled it out.

"What did he say about Frank?"

"He said he was as innocent as the angels in heaven."

Solicitor Dorsey brought out from the witness a statement that Frank came to the fourth floor twice on Tuesday morning within a period of 15 minutes, but she declared that he did not talk to Conley either time; that he just came to see if everything was getting on all right.

The witness was excused, and Fred Heilbren was called. He lives at 371 Washington street, and is a clothier. He testified to Frank's character, terming it good.

FRANK'S MOTHER TESTIFIES.

Attorney Rosser asked Mrs. Rae Frank, mother of the defendant, to take the witness stand.

"You are the mother of the defendant?"

"Yes."

"Where do you live?"

"Brooklyn, N. Y."

"How long have you been there?"

"26 years."

"Where did you move to Brooklyn from?"

"New York city."

"Then you've lived in only those two cities?"

"No. I lived three years in Texas, from 1881 to 1884 inclusive."

"Your son here was born in Brooklyn?"

"No, he was born in Texas."

"What relation are you to Mr. M. Frank?"

"He is my husband's brother."

"Where does he live?"

"Here in Atlanta."

"Have you seen Mr. M. Frank this year?"

"Yes. I saw him on Sunday, April 27, and Monday, April 28."

"Where?"

"At the McAlpin hotel, New York."

"Where is that located?"

"Thirty-second street and Broadway."

FRANK WROTE LETTER ON 26TH.

Mr. Rosser took up a letter and started to read it to the witness. Solicitor Dorsey objected. Attorney Rosser said: "We are dealing with what Frank did on April 26, and I want to show this letter, dated April 26., was mailed here, delivered to his uncle in New York, and read there in the presence of this lady."

Attorney Hooper took the floor, declearing that the letter was immaterial, but anything in it could be no more than self-serving declaration, and that it was inadmissible.

Mr. Arnold argued. "It's very important to account for time in this case. The hour from 12 to 1 is very important. We want to show that he wrote this between those hours. We want to show as clearly as possible what he did with every little fragment of time on that day. Suppose he went to a baseball game. That would be admissible to show how his time was spent. As he wrote a letter, we want to show that he took up that much time. It's small, but important."

"It might be admissible to show time spent, but to state objects to the contents of the letter," said Judge Roan.

LETTER IN EVIDENCE.

"Well, the contents are the only thing to show the length of time it took to write it," said Mr. Arnold.

The letter finally was admitted in evidence, without being read to the jury.

Answering questions by Attorney Rosser, Mrs. Frank identified the handwriting as that of her son, as well as the handwriting on the envelope. She heard the contents before when her sister-in-law read it to her brother-in-law in a New York hotel. Mrs. Frank volunteered the information that one word in a letter was unintelligible. It was "yondef" which is pure Hebrew for holiday, she said.

In cross-examination, solictor Dorsey asked her if she did not also see a telegram sent by her son on that same day. She replied.

"I'll give it to my possession, but not with me at the present time.

"I'll give it to you tomorrow morning."

Taking up the letter, Mr. Dorsey asked "was this folded exactly as it is now?"

"To the best of my recollection."

"Do you know what time of day you read it?"

"I don't know the precise time. It was between 10 and 10:30 o'clock."

Mrs. Frank testified that the letter in evidence and it was admitted. Mrs. Frank was excused from the stand. Court then adjourned at 5:45 until Saturday morning.

FRANK'S LETTER.

Here is the letter:

"Atlanta, Ga., April 26, 1913.

"Dear uncle:

"I trust that this finds you and dear aunnie well. I left arriving safely in New York. I hope that you found all the dear ones well in Brooklyn, and I trust a letter will find you well. How you found things there. Lucile and I are well.

"It is too short a time since you left for anything startling to have developed down here. The opera has Atlanta in its grip, but that ends today. I have heard a rumor that opera will not be given again in a hurry here.

"Today was yondef here, and the dingy lines of veterans, smaller each year, braved the chilly weather to do honor to their fallen comrades.

"I guess you will find last week's report. The shipments still keep up well, though the result is not what one could wish. There is nothing new in the factory, etc., to report. Inclosed please find the price list you desired.

"The next letter from me you should get on board ship. After that I will write to the address you gave me in Frankfort.

"Much love to you both, in which Lucile joins me.

"I am your affectionate nephew,

(Signed) "LEO M. FRANK."

WITNESS, CALLED BY THE DEFENSE, TESTIFIES AGAINST FRANK

"No, we paid $4,000 down on the house and assumed a $6,000 mortgage."

"You didn't pay all cash, did you?

Didn't know. I'm no business woman."

"You paid $4,000 for the house, and assumed a $6,000 mortgage. That makes the house worth $10,000, doesn't it?"

"Yes, if you count the mortgage."

"You don't owe anything except the mortgage, do you?"

"No, sir."

"Are you sure that you haven't more than $20,000 loaned out?"

"Yes, we haven't any more."

"What interest do you get on it?"

"I don't know. Do you want me to tell you all about my everyday life?"

"I want you to answer, if you please, the questions I ask you. What business is your husband in now?"

"Temporarily he is doing nothing."

Mrs. Frank added that until a year ago he had been a traveling salesman. She testified that her son-in-law lives with her; she pays $32.50 a month rent; she does not know the extent of his business, she said. She testified that she has two sisters in Brooklyn—Mrs. Bennett and Miss Jacobs. Miss Jacobs, said she, lives with Mrs. Bennett and works every day.

"Where does Leo Frank's uncle live?"

"Right here in Atlanta."

"Doesn't he spend any time in Brooklyn?"

UNCLE CONSIDERED WEALTHY.

"Oh, yes, he spends some Sundays there. And sometimes he invites us over to New York to dinner when he's there."

"He's very wealthy, isn't he?"

"He is generally considered so."

"Don't you know that he was in Brooklyn Saturday?"

"He wasn't at my house."

"How much of the $20,000 is yours personally?"

"About $8,000."

"How much interest do you get on that?"

"Six per cent. I collect it myself every six months."

"You don't know whether or not Mr. Frank's notes more than this, do you?"

"Oh, I know all of my husband's affairs."

"How much cash did he have in the bank when you left?"

"I don't know. A few hundred dollars possibly."

"How much interest do you get on the other $17,000?"

"I don't know."

"And say you get your six per cent interest on your $3,000 every six months?"

"Yes."

"How much interest do you pay on the mortgage?"

"Five per cent."

"How often do you pay it?"

"Once a year."

That concluded the cross-examination. Attorney Rosser questioned the witness again.

"How old is your husband, Mrs. Frank?"

"Sixty-seven years."

"What is the state of his health?"

"It is very poor. He is nervous and broken down from hard work."

Mrs. Frank was excused, and Attorney Rosser read to the jury the letter tendered as having been written by Frank to his uncle on April 26.

ENGINEER TESTIFIES.

Knox Thomas, a civil engineer, was called as the next witness. He testified that he had measured the distance from the intersection of Alabama and Forsyth streets to the office of the pencil factory on the second floor, and found it to be 1,016 feet. He testified that he walked this distance at his usual gait and that it took him four and a half minutes. He measured also a distance between the corner of Alabama and Whitehall street and found it to be 832 feet. He certified that he walked this distance at his usual gait and that it took him three and a half minutes. He testified that the measured distance from Broad and Hunter streets to the pencil factory office and found it to be 333 feet. He walked that distance at his usual gait, said he, and it took him one and three-quarters minutes.

Briefly cross-examined by Solicitor Dorsey, the witness answered the question "What is your usual walking gait?" with the reply "Four miles an hour." Then asked as to how long it would take him to walk one mile, that being this witness' task, he figured on a piece of paper and replied that it would take him 60 minutes. In a moment he saw his mistake, grinned, and corrected himself by saying 15 minutes.

"Then," asked the solicitor, "were the measurements you made for the attorneys for the defense any more accurate than your first answer?"

The witness answered "Yes, sir. I'm satisfied they were accurate."

MISS HALL RECALLED.

Miss Corinthia Hall, who works on the fourth floor of the pencil factory, and who had testified previously for the defense, was the next witness. Attorney Arnold asked her the usual question as to whether or not she ever had been to Frank's office to drink beer, she answering in the negative. She then testified in a general way that she had once or twice heard of Jim Conley being drunk in the factory, and that she would hesitate to believe any negro on oath. She was asked a few questions by Solicitor Dorsey and then was excused.

JIM A BORROWER.

Miss Ida Hayes, who works on the fourth floor of the pencil factory, testified that Frank's general character is good, and denied that she ever went to Frank's office to drink beer. In answer to a question "What is Jim Conley's general reputation for truth and veracity?" she answered "I guess you would say it is bad." On cross-examination by Attorney Hooper she said that Jim Conley's worst habit, probably, was borrowing money.

Miss Sula Mae Flowers, who works on the second floor of the factory, testified that Frank's character is good, and that the character of Jim Conley is bad, and that she would not believe him on oath. Cross-examined by Mr. Hooper, she said that she had loaned money from her and that she got it back by having it taken out of his wages without his ever asking for it.

Miss Ella Hayes, who now works at Kress', testified that for eleven months she worked on the fourth floor of the pencil factory and quit Monday after the tragedy. She testified that Frank's character is good.

Miss Minnie Foster, who worked on the fourth floor of the factory for a year, testified that Frank's character is good. On cross-examination she admitted she had formed her opinion of his character from her own knowledge and had never heard it discussed prior to the tragedy.

"SHE COULDN'T REMEMBER.

Miss Opie Dickinson, who has worked at the pencil factory seven years, testified that Frank's character is good and that Conley's character is bad and she wouldn't believe him on oath. Solicitor Dorsey cross-questioned her.

"Where were you the night of April 26?"

"I don't know."

"Do you know Miss Louise Gresham?"

"Yes."

"Were you with her the night of April 26?"

"I don't remember."

"Were you with Wade Campbell the night of April 26?"

"I don't remember."

"Do you know Mr. Darley over at the pencil factory?"

"Yes."

"He's a married man, isn't he?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you go to the Bijou theatre with Mr. Darley, Mr. Campbell and Miss Gresham on the night of April 26?"

"I don't remember."

"Don't you remember going out to Miss Gresham's house to get her?"

Attorney Arnold objected to the questions as immaterial and irrelevant. Judge Roan sustained the objection.

"How did you get Miss Gresham up town that night?"

"I wasn't with her."

Attorney Arnold objected again, and was sustained, and the question and answer were stricken.

"Are you quite sure you don't know where you were Saturday night, April 26?"

"I don't remember."

"Quite sure, now, are you?"

"I don't remember."

"None of them."

Miss Emma Freeman testified that she has been working on the fourth floor of the factory for four years; that Frank's reputation is good; and that she would not believe Conley on oath. Solicitor Dorsey asked her one question. She answered that she heard a suggestion or reference to immoral conduct on the part of Frank, have you?" "No, sir!"

MISS GUSSIE WALLACE.

Miss Gussie Wallace and Miss Annie Osborn testified that Frank's character is good. Miss Wallace said that she didn't know Conley's character. Miss Osborn said Conley's character is bad. Answering Attorney Hooper, Miss Osborn said that she based her opinion of Conley's character simply on the fact that he did not pay back money that he had borrowed from her.

Mrs. Ella Thomas testified that Frank's character is good, that Conley's is bad, and that she would not believe Conley on oath. Answering questions by Attorney Hooper, she said she loaned Conley 15 cents and never got it back.

DIDN'T KNOW MUCH OF CHARACTER.

Miss Bessie Thrailkro testified that she did not know either Frank's or Conley's character. Cross-examined by Attorney Hooper, she said she did not remember seeing Conley on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday following the murder; that she had heard of the blood stain on the metal room floor but did not investigate it; went back to the back and see it. She worked in the job department on the second floor, she said.

Miss Allie Denham was excused without the usual questions when it was found that she had gone to work in the factory only two weeks before the murder. She appeared to be not more than 12 or 13 years old.

The next witness, Miss Rebecca Carson, testified that Frank's character is good and that Conley's is bad. On cross-examination she stated that she declined several times to lend Jim money; that he bore a reputation among the young women workers of being a bad negro.

Miss Maude Wright, who works on the third floor of the pencil factory, failed to add to the testimony. She was for Frank or against Jim Conley, as she stated that she merely knew them both. When she was cross-examined she declined to say that she had ever heard anyting against Frank.

PINKERTON ON STAND.

W. D. McWorth, a Pinkerton detective, who claimed to have found on the first floor the large bludgeon and the end of Mary Phagan's pay envelope, was the next witness. In response to questions by Attorney Rosser, he testified that he worked fifteen days on the investigation from May 15 he made a search of the ground floor of the pencil factory, finding stains near the trap door and finding a piece of wood that seem blood. He testified that on a radiator behind the trap door and up against the wall he found a piece of twine nine lengths of rope used in the factory to tie up pencils. He testified that one piece of the rope showed signs of having been cut recently. Behind the radiator he found about half a barrel of rubbish, and among the rubbish a newspaper dated February 11, 1913. Six of eight inches from the radiator, said he, in a corner, he found a small pile of waste. He found in this pile the end of a pay envelope, it was dirty, said he, and when he and Whitfield, another Pinkerton detective, took it to the front door to examine it more closely he discovered on the envelope the number "184" and the initials "M. F." He found, finding up against the door, a large club, said he, which was produced and identified by Mary Phagan's mother three feet and a half long, about two inches in diameter. He testified that he asked Holloway what it was used for, and that Holloway told him it was used for used in loading boxes on to wagons. He found some stains on it, said he.

He was cross-examined by Solicitor Dorsey. The solicitor produced the handle of a buggy whip and asked the witness if it was like the one he found. The witness answered in the affirmative.

The detective said that he found the whip handle behind the front door of the factory. He identified on the diagram where he found the bludgeon and where he found the part of an envelope. The door of the National Pencil Company was closed and nailed the day he found them. He said that he started on a search at 6 o'clock in the morning on the office floor and that it was about 3:15 o'clock when he commenced to make his discoveries.

He said that Darley had shown him the place on the second floor where the chips had been found and that the floor back there looked as if it was stained. Factory employes pointed out to him that a machine was in the metal room where there were similar stains. He could see no difference between those other stains and the one whence the chips had been taken.

Answering the solicitor's questions, the witness declared that the blood looking especially for a pay envelope, but acting under the instructions of Harry Scott he was looking for a mesh bag. He described the mesh bag for which he was looking as about five inches wide, with three or four links broken. He was joined in his search at the factory by L. P. Whitfield, Pinkerton operative, before he made his discoveries.

"Where did you discover these blood stains?"

"I didn't say blood stains. I said stains."

The solicitor referred to a report by the witness, and asked him if it was his own report that day that you had found blood stains?"

The witness examined his report and said that he said that he had found what looked to him like blood stains.

"Describe those stains."

The witness described them as dis*colorations of the floor, seven in number,* and six or seven inches in diameter. The witness admitted that it was rather dark at that point near the trap door, but said that he discovered the stains without artificial light, but used matches to examine them more closely. The detective described how the cords which he claimed to have found were entwined about the piece of the radiator.

In reply to questions, McWorth said that he found the stains first, and later he found the rope. The rope was found within two feet of the trap door. The witness first said that Whitfield was not examining the stains and the rope when he picked up the rolled corner of the envelope on which was written Mary Phagan's name. When shown a Pinkerton report, however, which showed that Whitfield was examining the stains and rope when he picked up the paper, he said that it probably was correct.

ROSSER COMPLAINS TO COUNSEL.

While the solicitor was examining the witness Attorney Rosser arose hurriedly and complained to Attorney Hooper that the conduct of Detective Starnes and Policeman Payne in receiving messages from witnesses was improper, and he asked that Mr. Hooper stop it. The solicitor stopped his examination to whisper to Detective Starnes. Then he called the court's attention to the matter, declaring that in view of the complaint he supposed he would like to have Mr. Starnes state to the court what the message was that he had just received. Attorney Rosser objected to the discussion in open court, saying he had made merely a private complaint to counsel. Attorney Hooper, upholding the solicitor's position, asked that the court go into the matter, and said to Attorney Rosser: "You don't know how loud you are speaking, my big friend."

The court held that no complaint had been brought before it by counsel for the defense, and refused to go into the matter.

Solicitor Dorsey, continuing the examination of McWorth, caused the witness to show the court the corner of the pay envelope was rolled and folded when he found it. He declared that the envelope was found eight or ten feet from the trap door. He said there were two scraps of white paper, possibly a newspaper, about the size of a person's finger, within a short distance of the envelope.

"Is this paper," exhibiting the corner of an envelope, "just like it was when you found it?"

"Yes."

HAD NO FIGURES ON IT.

"Didn't it then have a figure '5' on it?"

"No."

'Do you know who addressed the envelope?"

"No."

"Did you talk to Schiff about it?" At that point the solicitor looked over and saw Schiff sitting with counsel for the accused, and asked them to put him out. Attorneys for the defense said that they needed Schiff to help them because he knew the names of people in the factory; that he already had been examined, and that they saw no reason why he should not remain. They called attention to the presence of the Pinkerton detective, who was sitting behind the solicitor. The solicitor contended that Scott was in the room by consent of counsel for both sides and the court. He said Schiff was not. Schiff was excluded from the room, Judge Roan remarking as he went out, "Well, we will take a month if necessary and will sit and consult him between the examination of witnesses."

"Did you show this envelope to Schiff?" resumed the solicitor.

"Yes."

"Did he identify the writing on it?"

Attorney Rosser objected, and was sustained by Judge Roan.

"Did you show this envelope to the *presence of Mr. Whitfield, of the Pinker*ton agency, show this envelope to Mr. Coleman and Mrs. Coleman?"

"Yes."

"Isn't it true that at that time there was a figure five on the envelope?"

"No more than there is now."

"What was the conversation with the Colemans with reference to this figure five?"

COURT ALLOWS QUESTION.

Attorney Rosser objected. It was hearsay evidence, said he. He said that the only way it would be admissible was by impeachment, and that they had not expected to impeach the witness it was not proceeding upon the right foundation.

Judge Roan: "I will allow the question if the state expects to show that this man acquiesced to the figure five in that conversation."

Solicitor Dorsey explained. "That's exactly what I do want to show."

"Well, your honor, I don't see how we could be bound by what happened out there on May 17," exclaimed Attorney Rosser. "The defendant was not present."

DENIES CONVERSATION.

"I expect to show by Mr. Coleman that on May 17, and five solicitor, five days after this piece of envelope was found, Whitfield and this detective went out at the Atlanta and had a conversation there about the figure 5, and I expect to show that this envelope was picked up on the floor and Mr. Coleman called the attention of this detective and Whitfield to the fact that Mary didn't get but $1.20 on the day she was murdered."

Judge Roan allowed the question. So licitor Dorsey then asked:

"Did such a conversation occur?"

"No," answered the witness.

"You deny, then, that Mr. Coleman called your attention to a figure 5, do you?"

"No, sir," he did not."

"What was the amount Mary Phagan had received on the figure 5 preceding her murder? Didn't that amount end in a $5?"

Attorney Rosser objected. "He doesn't know how much Mary phagan got."

The solicitor apparently withdrew the question. Detective Howard was company was closed and nailed the day he found them. He said that he started on a search at 6 o'clock in the morning on the office floor and that it was about 3:15 o'clock when he commenced to make his discoveries.

He said that Darley had shown him the place on the second floor where the chips had been found and that the floor back there looked as if it was stained. Factory employes pointed out to him that a machine was in the metal room where there were similar stains. He could see no difference between those other stains and the one whence the chips had been taken.

Answering the solicitor's questions, the witness declared that he was looking especially for a pay envelope, but acting under the instructions of Harry Scott he was looking for a mesh bag. He described the mesh bag for which he was looking as about five inches wide, with three or four links broken. He was joined in his search at the factory by L. P. Whitfield, Pinkerton operative, before he made his discoveries.

"Where did you discover these blood stains?"

"I didn't say blood stains. I said stains."

The solicitor referred to a report by the witness, and asked him if it was his own report that day that you had found blood stains?"

The witness examined his report and said that he said that he had found what looked to him like blood stains.

"Describe those stains."

The witness described them as dis*colorations of the floor, seven in number,* and six or seven inches in diameter. The witness admitted that it was rather dark at that point near the trap door, but said that he discovered the stains without artificial light, but used matches to examine them more closely. The detective described how the cords which he claimed to have found were entwined about the piece of the radiator.

In reply to questions, McWorth said that he found the stains first, and later he found the rope. The rope was found within two feet of the trap door. The witness first said that Whitfield was not examining the stains and the rope when he picked up the rolled corner of the envelope on which was written Mary Phagan's name. When shown a Pinkerton report, however, which showed that Whitfield was examining the stains and rope when he picked up the paper, he said that it probably was correct.

Attorney Rosser argued against the admission of the evidence, after the witness had left the stand.

"The Pinkertons were employed to discover the murderer, no matter who he was," said Mr. Rosser. "Frank is not the pencil company. Our witnesses are discounted, if that is possible, because Solicitor Dorsey tries to bring out the fact that they did not tell the police everything they knew." He contended that the evidence which the solicitor sought to introduce was hearsay, irrelevant and immaterial.

The solicitor answered, contending that the evidence went to show the interest of the witness in the case.

"I expect to prove to the jury," he said, "that Detective John, Black went to the witness about the time when the police learned through another source that it had been found, and that they brought out this piece of a buggy whip and showed it to him, and never said a word about the club.

"We propose to show that nothing was said about the envelope until July 12. We propose to show that this witness was instructed not to report his finds to the police. We want to show the interest, your honor, and his attitude, and the interest and attitude of the Pinkerton Detective agency."

Judge Roan ruled that he would let the state show that the witness found the club and the envelope (as had already been shown by the other), that he told the state's agent so, by cross-examination of the witness whether he reported the find to the police; that he would rule out what any other man told the witness.

JURY BROUGHT BACK.

The jury was brought back and the cross-examination continued.

"Who is the head of the Pinkerton Detective agency in Atlanta?"

H. B. Burns.

"Where is he now?"

Attorney Rosser objected and was sustained.

"Where is Whitfield now?"

Attorney Rosser objected again, and there was another long discussion, finally the judge let the solicitor ask the witness as to the whereabouts of both Pierce and Whitfield.

"Where is Pierce?" again asked the solicitor.

"I don't know."

"Where is Whitfield?"

I don't know."

"When was the last time you saw them?"

"Last Monday evening."

"Do you know whether they are in Atlanta or out of Atlanta?"

"I do not."

"How long after you found this club and this note, did you report the find to the police?"

"Seventeen hours."

"How long after that before you held another conference with the police?"

"Four hours."

"Didn't you tell Black about this buggy whip and this envelope?"

"No, I told him about the club and the envelope."

"When Black went up to the Pinkerton office, didn't you show him this buggy whip stub instead of the club?"

"No."

"To whom did you turn over the buggy whip and the club and the envelope?"

"To H. B. Pierce."

"Then you were not at the office when this was shown to Black?"

"I was not there."

Attorney Rosser, taking up the written report by the Pinkerton agency, asked: "Is that the report you furnished?"

"No."

"Didn't you make this report?"

"No."

"Didn't Mr. Dorsey show you the signature at the bottom of this report, and didn't you say it was yours?"

"That may be a copy of the report I made."

"Did you make this diagram showing where you found the club and envelope?"

"Yes, I made it and attached it to my report."

"Do you know if I ever saw this diagram before?"

"No, I do not."

It is reported that Pierce is in Birmingham, outside the jurisdiction of the Georgia courts.

Miss Mollie Blair was the next witness. She failed to qualify as a character witness for Frank as she had worked at the factory only five months and knew him only when she saw him.

Miss Sarah Barnes was the next called.

When asked by Attorney Arnold if she knew Leo M. Frank instead of replying "yes or no," she launched into an enthusiastic tribute to Frank's character and personality.

LOVED SUPERINTENDENT.

"Yes," said she, "I know Mr. Frank, and I don't know anything in the world against him, and I certainly am mighty sorry that I got into this trouble. I'll tell you, and I'll tell everybody else, Mr. Arnold, that I love my superintendent because he was a perfect business man. I'd be willing to stand right here in my place and die to show that I believe in him. Indeed, I'd be willing to fight for him!"

Attorney Arnold scratched his head and drew a deep breath and decided that he would do well to put the questions in legal form. He did so, and after considerable difficulty restrained the witness from giving stereotyped answers expected from witnesses.

Solicitor Dorsey took the witness in hand.

"Who talked to you about what you were going to swear?"

"Why, nobody talked to me about what I was going to swear, except down there at the boarding house, there's fourteen of them, and have to fight with 'em every day about my superintendent."

By this time the witness had the court room in an uproar, and a deputies and the judge himself (with a mallet) ad difficulty in restoring order.

Judge Roan admonished counsel on both sides not to give her opinions but simply to answer the questions.

The solicitor called her again to state whom she had discussed the case with. She answered that she had discussed it with nobody, except Mr. Arnold came down to the pencil factory office and asked her what she knew about Frank. With that she was excused.

Miss Ina Barnes, who worked two years on the fourth floor, testified that Frank's character is good.

Miss Bessie Steele, now employed by the Southern Belle Telephone company, who formerly worked on the fourth floor of the pencil factory, testified that the character of Frank is good so far as she knows. On cross-examination she said that her estimate of his character is based solely on her own personal knowledge of him.

Lemmie Jackson, 15 years old, daughter of Policeman A. W. Jackson, on cross-examination delivered the most sensational testimony of the morning. Miss Jackson stated on direct examination that she worked on the fourth floor about three years, and that she left the factory about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of the murder. She said she did not know anything about Frank.

Solicitor Dorsey cross-examined the witness.

"You mean you personally knew nothing about him. How did the other girls feel?" he asked.

"The girls seemed to be afraid of him, and started working faster when ever he came around."

"Do you know Miss Emily Mayfield?"

"The witness answered that she did, continued that at one time the young woman worked in the pencil factory and later at Jacobs'. But the witness said she had not seen her since about Easter.

Answering questions by the solicitor, the witness declared that Frank came and pushed open the dressing room door one day while Miss Mayfield was undressing. He looked in, and then left. The witness said she did not see him smile. She said Miss Mayfield had discarded her top dress. In answer to another question, she said Miss Mayfield reported the intrusion of the factory superintendent to one of the forelades, Miss Cleland.

Asked if she had threatened to quit at that time on account of the occurrence she said, "No," that her sister had.

"After this occurrence, what was said to you about quitting?"

"Mr. Barnes asked me if I was going to quit, after this murder. I told him that papa was going to make me. He asked then if I would stay if he knew I was going to make me, but he said 'The girls who stay here through this thing won't lose anything.'"

"Was that all that?"

"Miss Clara Stewart was sitting there."

"The defense objected to both of the last questions and their answers, but the objection was overruled by the court.

HEARD OTHERS COMPLAIN.

The witness admitted that she had heard the other girls remark several times about Frank coming into the dressing room. In answer to other questions, the witness stated that on a second occasion, Frank came into the dressing room when her sister was lying down in the room. Her feet elevated on a table or a stool. She said Frank just walked in and walked out again, and that she didn't remember in just what stage of undress her sister lay. The witness admitted that she had heard other girls complain that Frank would come into the dressing room and stand and stare.

On a third occasion when she was in the dressing room, said the witness, with Miss Mary Kitchens, Frank came in. Replying to questions, the witness said that Frank did not knock on any occasion, but just pushed the door in. The witness said she worked at the factory just about three years.

On redirect examination, the witness said that she would have stayed at the factory, as she had a number of bills she wanted to pay, if her father had not objected.

The witness said that two windows in the dressing room of which she spoke open on Forsyth street. She admitted that employes at the factory often yelled the negro upstairs and stopped the second floor to tell him what they wanted him to do. Mr. Branch was about to ask the nature of the conversation, when Attorney Arnold objected again, and there was another long discussion. Mr. Branch finally was instructed that the nature of the conversation except that part which might be explanatory of Conley's actions. The witness said it would be hard for him to draw this distinction.

ROSSER ENTERS OBJECTION.

Again he started, but no sooner had he opened his way than Attorney Rosser objected once more. Judge Roan ruled that he would admit Branch's testimony not as a proof of Conley's story, but as a matter of fact that it might take to go through Conley's story.

"Will I want you to understand, your honor," said Attorney Rosser, "that while I'm not going to object any more, I am here now to object to the admission to this testimony." The objection was recorded, and Mr. Branch proceeded, following the negro's movements as he reanacted his story in the pencil factory.

Now what time did you say you got to the factory?" asked the solicitor, when the witness had finished with the diagram.

"What time did Conley finish?"

"I did not say until Conley had finished. About 1 o'clock he was in the metal room working with one or two others. I am not quite certain, but that hour it was time for me to report at my office, and I telephoned for another man to relieve me."

The witness said that Conley moved so fast that he kept him, the witness, on the run most of the time. He said there were half a dozen detectives at the factory during the negro's examinations at him, which he was answering.

Leaving out the time that it took for Conley to reanact his story in front of the detectives to ask them, what is your best opinion, Mr. Branch, of the time it took to go through the performance?"

The witness declared that it was a difficult question to answer. The solicitor insisted on his making an effort to give his opinion.

The defense objected, and while the matter was being argued, Judge Roan announced the court adjourned until Monday morning at 9 o'clock. The hour then was 1:05.

SPEAKS TO JURY.

Before letting the jury go for the interval, Judge Roan addressed them, saying: "Gentlemen, I am not holding an afternoon session to satisfy a fi fa. issued from the city court of Atlanta in favor of W. McC. Brown, receiver, etc., vs. Jesse Jackson, and transferred by the said W. McC. Brown, receiver, etc., to the said Mrs. Ella Miller for valuable consideration, as the property of L. F. Buks, and levied on by the said fi fa. of said L. F. Buks, transferee. A deed for the purpose of levy and sale having been executed, filed and recorded as required by law. Tenant in possession notified.

Also at the same time and place the following described property, to-wit: A one-half undivided interest in lot in Atlanta, in land lot number two hundred and fifty-four (254) in the fourteenth (14th) district of Fulton county, Georgia, being lot 8, as per plat and survey of property of Mrs. Ella Dillard, dated April 20, 1883, commencing on the west side of Elm street one hundred (100) feet, more or less, from the corner of Elm street and Mary street, running thence west along Mary street one hundred (100) feet, more or less, to the east side of Elm street; thence north along the west side of Elm street fifty-seven (57) feet, more or less, to the corner of Elm street and Drummond street, being lot No. 36 on the plat of property of Ella Dillard; thence east along the south side of Drummond street one hundred (100) feet, more or less, to the corner of Drummond street and Mary street, being lot No. 37 of the Ware and Owen subdivision of Thomas' land lot; thence south along the west side of Mary street fifty-seven (57) feet, more or less, to the beginning corner as per plat of Ella Dillard, dated February 15, 1913. Six of eight inches from the radiator, said he, in a corner, he found a small pile of waste. He found in this pile the end of a pay envelope, it was dirty, said he, and when he and Whitfield, another Pinkerton detective, took it to the front door to examine it more closely he discovered on the envelope the number "184" and the initials "M. F." He found, finding up against the door, a large club, said he, which was produced and identified by Mary Phagan's mother three feet and a half long, about two inches in diameter. He testified that he asked Holloway what it was used for, and that Holloway told him it was used for used in loading boxes on to wagons. He found some stains on it, said he.

He was cross-examined by Solicitor Dorsey. The solicitor produced the handle of a buggy whip and asked the witness if it was like the one he found. The witness answered in the affirmative.

The detective said that he found the whip handle behind the front door of the factory. He identified on the diagram where he found the bludgeon and where he found the part of an envelope. The door of the National Pencil Company was closed and nailed the day he found them. He said that he started on a search at 6 o'clock in the morning on the office floor and that it was about 3:15 o'clock when he commenced to make his discoveries.

He said that Darley had shown him the place on the second floor where the chips had been found and that the floor back there looked as if it was stained. Factory employes pointed out to him that a machine was in the metal room where there were similar stains. He could see no difference between those other stains and the one whence the chips had been taken.

Answering the solicitor's questions, the witness declared that he was looking especially for a pay envelope, but acting under the instructions of Harry Scott he was looking for a mesh bag. He described the mesh bag for which he was looking as about five inches wide, with three or four links broken. He was joined in his search at the factory by L. P. Whitfield, Pinkerton operative, before he made his discoveries.

"Where did you discover these blood stains?"

"I didn't say blood stains. I said stains."

The solicitor referred to a report by the witness, and asked him if it was his own report that day that you had found blood stains?"

The witness examined his report and said that he said that he had found what looked to him like blood stains.

"Describe those stains."

The witness described them as dis*colorations of the floor, seven in number,* and six or seven inches in diameter. The witness admitted that it was rather dark at that point near the trap door, but said that he discovered the stains without artificial light, but used matches to examine them more closely. The detective described how the cords which he claimed to have found were entwined about the piece of the radiator.

In reply to questions, McWorth said that he found the stains first, and later he found the rope. The rope was found within two feet of the trap door. The witness first said that Whitfield was not examining the stains and the rope when he picked up the rolled corner of the envelope on which was written Mary Phagan's name. When shown a Pinkerton report, however, which showed that Whitfield was examining the stains and rope when he picked up the paper, he said that it probably was correct.

A SINGER BECOMES A RICH MAN

A young singer suffering from indigestion consulted the greatest Europeon specialist of a vegetable which had wonderful digestive properties. The singer made quick use of the remedy, he put much of this vegetable, which not only aided the digestion, but also tone the place of any other sauce for table and kitchen use, and was delicious. This was shown to the leading cooks of Europe and it was pronoun-ed unequalled. The company formed to manufacture the sauce, which was called Waw-Waw (an absolute vegetable American word for vegetable), and so great was the immediate success that it is now found throughout the world. A 25-cent bottle from your grocer will suffice to show how much more you will enjoy your food by adding Waw-Waw to the soups, cooking and with cold or hot meats, fish and in salads, and at the same time see how very easily you digest your food.

INSURANCE MAN TO BE PROSECUTED BY STATE

Comptroller General Orders Mitchell's Arrest for Failing to Get License

In a communication addressed to Solicitor General Gamble, of the Athens superior court, Comptroller General William A. Wright has ordered the arrest and detention of W. H. Mitchell, a representative of the "Patricians," a benificent order with headquarters in Saginaw, Mich., in consequence of his persistent refusal to comply with the insurance laws of Georgia. The letter of General Wright was forwarded to the Classic City Saturday afternoon, immediately upon the flat refusal of Mitchell to take out a state license.

The company which Mitchell represents is said to have been chartered in the District of Columbia by an act of congress, though its head offices are located in Michigan.

According to the insurance department of Georgia, the representative declared that it had no jurisdiction over his company, irrespective of the law, and that he did not propose to comply with the demands made by the insurance commissioner. When a branch of the "Patricians" was established in Athens, Mitchell was advised that he would have to operate under the state laws by taking out the proper license and comply with the statutes.

In commenting on this unusual case, General Wright declared that he, as insurance commissioner, would show the offender that the state laws were not to be taken lightly, or ignored by any one indulging in any kind of business that came within the jurisdiction of the insurance department.

"In ordering this man's arrest," said the general, "I intend to make an example of him for others to ponder over in the future."

COURT RULES IN FAVOR OF LOWLY PEDESTRIAN

Georgia Appeals Judges Declare Automobile Has No Superior Right on Highway

A person operating an automobile does not possess rights superior to those possessed by a pedestrian on street or highway, according to a ruling by the court of appeals Saturday morning in the case of J. L. O'Dowd vs. Mrs. Clara C. Newman, of Augusta. The court of appeals also lays down the proposition that the operator of an automobile must recognize the equal rights of a pedestrian and be governed accordingly.

The case in question was appealed from Richmond county superior court in which Mrs. Newman brought suit for $20,000 against Mr. O'Dowd for the death of her husband, Ernest J. Newman. Mrs. Newman obtain a verdict for $10,000, and the judgment of the lower court is affirmed by the court of appeals. According to the evidence, Mr. Newman was running to catch a street car when he was struck by Mr. O'Dowd's automobile. He was going in the same direction as the machine, and didn't see it. His skull was fractured and he died from his injuries.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

TIFTON, Ga., Aug. 16.—The cotton market has opened up lively in Tifton this week and it is believed that the receipts will show a total of nearly 100 bales. However the bulk of the crop is young and it will be several weeks yet before the season is on in full.

U. S. FOREST RANGERS EQUAL WONDERS OF EGYPT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—An engineering feaf that has called for special commendation from Chief Forester Graves was reported today to the forest service from the Sitgreves national forest, in Arizona. A lookout tower, built entirely of logs, and thrusting its bulk 115 feet into the air, was constructed by forest rangers entirely without the aid of hoisting apparatus.

The work was accomplished entirely by unassisted man-muscle.

"Talk of the wonders worked by the ancient Egyptians in their pyramid construction," said a forest service official. "Pharaoh's artisans did not have very much not possessed by the forest riders of your Uncle Sam."

The timber for the construction of the tower was procured on the spot. The tower will be used in watching for forest fires.

WARDENS CHASE "SUMMER DUCKS" IN RESTAURANTS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 16.—The state game warden from South Carolina has been to Savannah in search of summer ducks. He called upon the game warden for Chatham county and his deputy yesterday and together they made a tour of the restaurants of Savannah and ransacked ice boxes in search of summer ducks being held in cold storage for rich epicures. They found none. The South Carolina game warden says that Savannahians are going into his state and shooting these birds and selling them in Georgia. It is against the law in either state for them to be shot at this season of the year.

MISSISSIPPI SOLONS REST FROM LONG PROBE

Secret Investigation of State Institutions Has Lasted Month and a Half

(By Associated Press.)

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 16.—The Mississippi legislature investigating committee which has been charged with the duty of probing almost every state institution and some officials, began a week's rest today after a month and half of continuous work. No newspaper representatives have been allowed to attend the hearings and only unconfirmed reports have been made on the happenings. The committee still is in the midst of the insane hospital probe, which probably will not be finished for some time. It has been decided to place evidence obtained before a grand jury. Other state institutions slated for investigation in an effort to ascertain if charges of a general system of petty graft and embezzlement are true include:

Jackson hospital, charity hospital, deaf and dumb institute, blind institute, state board of health, state live stock sanitary board, all state officers and state departments at Jackson, except the penitentiary; agricultural and mechanical college, industrial institute and college, state university, Mississippi levee board, Yazoo-Mississippi levee board, charity hospital, Vicksburg; charity hospital, Natchez; East Mississippi insane hospital, Mattye Hirsee charity hospital, Meridian; State Normal college, Confederate Soldiers' home, State Oyster commission and King's Daughters hospital, Gulfport.

In addition to this list the committee will probably be called upon to investigate four or five judges and a few district attorneys.

PENCIL FACTORY MODEL IS DAMAGED IN FIGHT

Lamar Rucker and Max Swain, Reporter, "Scrap" Adjoining Court Room

A fight between Lamar Rucker, an attorney from Athens, and Maxwell Swain, representative of the Atlanta Star, at the trial of Leo M. Frank, badly damaged the six-foot long model of the pencil factory introduced by the defense and scanned by numerous witnesses on the stand in illustrating their stories.

The model had been stored in the press room, adjoining court.

Mr. Rucker, who formerly lived in Atlanta, and Mr. Swain were total strangers to each other until the encounter introduced them.

Mr. Swain insisted that Mr. Rucker had attempted bowdaceously to cut off his, Swain's mustache—which, incidentally, is a mustache among mustaches.

Mr. Rucker did not explain his side of the disagreement.

In their struggle, Mr. Rucker to cut the mustache, and Mr. Swain to compel a desistance, they sat down upon the model, whereupon a report started among the facetious newspaper men that Mr. Swain had attempted to chuck Mr. Rucker down the elevator shaft.

Other newspaper men interfered, and all policing duties had been performed when one of the deputy sheriffs attached to the trial poked his head in the door and grinned.

WILSON'S AMBITION WAS TO BE OFFICER IN NAVY

Secretary Daniels Tells President's Boyhood Dream to Crew of Idaho

(By Associated Press.)

NEWPORT R. I., Aug. 16.—Secretary Daniels presented the target practice pennant to the battleship Idaho, the crack ship of the navy, here today and read the ship's officers and crew a lesson in preparedness.

"There never is time to 'make ready' in any truly great crisis in life," said the secretary, commending the crack gunners for their skill. "What is a growing navy worth to us unless manned by men who live in a state of preparedness?

"You may not know it, but it will add to your appreciation when I tell you that as a boy it was the highest ambition of Woodrow Wilson to enter the naval academy and become an officer. If his father had not led him into other lines the probability is that today he would be with us a captain or an admiral."

KILLS WIFE AND TRIES TO CREMATE HER BODY

Macon Man Brains Wife With Beer Bottle in North Carolina Hotel

HAMLET, N. C., Aug. 16.—Guests of a local hotel rushed into one of the rooms from which they saw smoke issuing yesterday, and found stretched on the floor the dead body of a woman who had given the name of Mrs. George S. Nance, of Macon, Ga. Her skull was fractured in several places, her clothing had burned off, and beside the body lay an empty beer bottle. Her husband, who came to the hotel with her this morning, was arrested in a room three doors from that of the woman, and told the police a sensational story of killing his wife after they had engaged in a struggle.

According to the report given by the police, Nance said that his wife had told him she knew he was crazy, and that she was also insane "and would stop at nothing." They struggled, and he seized the beer bottle and fractured her skull. Then he poured kerosene over her clothing and the furniture, and set fire to the room.

After a coroner's jury had returned a verdict that Mrs. Nance had been killed by her husband, George S. Nance, he was hurried to jail at Rockingham, where he was charged with murder and arson.

In Mrs. Nance's handbag was a receipted bill from S. H. George & Co., Greenville, S. C., addressed to Mrs. George S. Nance, 321 Laurens street, Greenville. Her shoes bear the mark of a Knoxville, Tenn., firm.

Nance appears to be about 40 years old. He had more than $500 in his pockets, together with a government bond for $1,000 and a deposit slip showing $1,000 deposited in a Macon, Ga., bank.

Efforts to find relatives of Nance or of his wife had not succeeded late tonight. The woman's body was placed in charge of an undertaker to be held subject to instructions.

I had backache and bearing down pains so bad that I could not sit in a chair or walk across the floor and I was in severe pain all the time. I felt discouraged as I had taken everything I could think of and was no better. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I am strong and healthy."—Mrs. ALICE DARLING, R.F.D. No. 2, Box 77, Pentwater, Mich.

Peoria, Ill.—"I had such backaches that I could hardly stand on my feet. I would feel like crying out lots of times, and had such a heavy feeling in my right side. I had such terrible dull headaches every day and they would make me feel so drowsy and sleepy all the time, yet I could not sleep at night.

"After I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a week I began to improve. My backache was less and that heavy feeling in my side went away. I continued to take the Compound and am cured.

"You may publish this if you wish."—Miss CLARA L. GAUWITZ, R.R. No. 4, Box 62, Peoria, Ill.

Schlitz in Brown Bottles does not have that disagreeable taste

so often found in beer in light bottles. We reprint below an extract from an opinion rendered by another famous scientist:

"Bottles of strong glass should be selected. They should never be of colorless glass, inasmuch as through the influence of light the beer will not only take on a disagreeable odor and taste, but will also become turbid."

President Wilson also shows an ability to govern Mexico.

The powers seem to believe that Huerta doesn't quite know it all.

Not Charity, but Simple Justice.

Every Georgian with a sense of social justice or economy will applaud the Legislature for its enactment of the bill establishing a State reformatory for wayward girls. This measure involved more than a matter of worthy sentiment or compassion, it involved a clear-cut public duty from which the State could not shrink at the peril of public interests and human rights. The establishment of such an institution is not to be regarded as an act of charity, unless we use the term in its larger meaning, but as an act of practical wisdom; and indifference or opposition to a claim like this is not so much the evidence of a hard heart as it is of a darkened or feeble understanding.

Time was when there were backward-looking men who begrudged the appropriation of a dollar for the conservation of natural resources. They would ridicule the idea of the State's spending money to protect field and orchard against insect pests, or to increase the productive power of the soil or to prevent the waste and sacrifice of elements on which material welfare depends. They decried the scientist as visionary and all plans for agricultural betterment as extravagant. But happily for themselves as well as for society, they were long since forgotten in the march of progress.

We are awakening today to the importance of human conservation, realizing that if it be needful to save and to develop the sources of our physical wealth it is incomparably more so to care for our social well-being. Problems of this kind are seen today in their vital relationship to the community as well as to the individual, and among such problems none could be more urgent than that of the wayward girl, with tremendous possibilities for harm, if neglected, but with immeasurable possibilities for good, if reclaimed.

The Legislature has shown admirable judgment in opening the way for a State institution that will serve the same purpose for delinquent girls as that of the reformatory already established for delinquent boys. It is to be regretted that a more adequate fund to this end could not be secured but the significant and cheering fact is that the State has recognized its plain duty in this regard and has moved forward in the right direction.

Cheerful news this that Americus has received thirty-five new bales of cotton. May the crop grow.

President Wilson doesn't see the necessity of a summer vacation when important work is on hand.

That New Jersey woman who can keep awake only by standing presents an unusual case; although we've known people who could snore lying down.

A Shortsighted Policy.

Civic and scientific bodies the country over are voicing a well-founded protest against the plan to open the grounds and buildings of the Panama-Pacific exposition to spectacle venders who have neither the knowledge nor facilities that are needed for the delicate service they pretend to render. Though most well-informed people know that spectacles are not to be bought like shoe strings or peanuts, there are thousands who would be easy victims to this sort of quackery at a world's fair. The management of the exposition seems much impressed by the sixty thousand dollars to be gained from the sale of this concession, but it has ignored the vitally important fact that glasses sold and fitted in this manner may ruin the eyesight of whoever is so luckless as to purchase them.

It is worth noting in this connection that the Atlanta Ad Men's club has adopted a resolution strongly disapproving of the scheme on the ground that it would be contrary to sound business ethics. The Atlanta Ad Men's club, like the great national association of which it is a member, stands for honest advertising and for commercial ideals as high as those espoused by any of the so-called professions. Naturally, therefore, it regarded as abhorrent a deal that would expose the patrons of the Panama-Pacific exposition to fraud and serious injury. It is a tribute to the club's good sense and sincerity that it took this seasonable stand.

Similar protest have been made by the American Civic Association, the American Optical Association and by other representative bodies. It is to be hoped that the exposition management will heed such well-considered and really friendly counsel. The public may like to be humbugged sometimes and in some matters but when it comes to so vital a thing as eyesight, humbuggery is not to be tolerated.

No need to worry about Mr. Bryan's lectures. They don't worry him.

The strut of a turkey gobbler isn't in it with that of the leading citizen in a village.

Playing With Mexican Fire.

The efforts yesterday of Senator Penrose, of Pennsylvania, to provoke a Mexican debate were particularly ill-timed and out of place. However serious may have been the grievances and dangers, of which he had heard, concerning individual Americans now in Mexico, the Senator showed miserable judgment in blurting his information to the four winds instead of taking it in orderly fashion to the State department or the foreign relations committee. His own purpose, if a sincere one, would thus have been thoroughly served without agitating this issue at a moment when restraint and prudence are especially needed.

The administration has done its utmost in good faith to take the Mexican question entirely out of politics. This was evidenced by the President's action in calling the Republican as well as the Democratic members of the foreign relations committee into counsel a week ago and in explaining to them fully his plans in sending John Lind to Mexico as a special representative of the Government. In matters of this kind, party differences have no rightful place, a fact which Mr. Wilson has not only recognized but has taken pains to stress. Senator Penrose's movement was thus all the more unwarranted; and it is gratifying to note that many of his Republican colleagues flatly opposed him.

There are pleasing indications that Mr. Lind's mission to Mexico is beginning to bear fruit. He is practically in communication with the Huerta government, despite the threat against his coming. The quiet circumstances attending his arrival in Mexico City and his subsequent movements there would seem to belie the rumors of an anti-American passion ready to wreak itself on a moment's opportunity. Certainly the Lind mission is not yet a failure and, that being true, there is reason to hope that it will prove a success.

The attitude of European governments and particularly Japan toward the American policy in Mexico are most assuring. Within the past few days England has made it known that its recognition of the Huerta regime was in no wise intended to embarrass the United States but was really based upon a mistaken idea that Washington also would extend its recognition. Japan's refusal to receive Felix Diaz as Huerta's representative is a very significant pledge of confidence in the course our government is pursuing.

It is thus evident that if there is any peaceful solution to the Mexican problem, the Wilson administration has found it. How important, therefore, that the President be left free to test to the utmost the virtues of the plan he has adopted. Outbursts like that of Senator Penrose are contrary to the country's best interest.

Pride may go before a fall even when a girl falls in love.

There's no power in knowledge unless you know how to put on the harness and hitch up.

It's hard for some children to understand why they should take their troubles to the Lord when they have a mother.

The high price of breakfast is halted temporarily by advices that the railroads will not be permitted to raise the freight rate on canteloupes.

A Reprimand Well Deserved.

The President's reprimand of Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson for the latter's ill-timed and grossly improper attack on the British foreign office came seasonably and well deserved. Though the discredited diplomat is virtually out of the Government's service, his resignation does not take formal effect until October. Hence his reflections upon the integrity of the British office, had they not been promptly disclaimed at Washington, might have been regarded in at least a semi-official light and have led to unfortunate misunderstandings.

Ambassador Wilson could not have hit upon a more inopportune time to vent his petulance. The American government is now relying upon the moral support of European Powers to carry forward its peace program in respect to Mexico and the response it has received, paticularly from England, has been very encouraging and valuable.

In these circumstance good taste and good sense should have admonished Ambassador Wilson to hold his tongue at least until his official connection with the Department of State was severed. That he was not dismissed forthwith upon his return from Mexico was due solely to an act of generous sufferance on the President's part, for, he had misrepresented the policies of the United States about as rankly as a tactless, irresponsible man could have done.

Instead of appreciating the administration's forbearance in leaving him a graceful exit from the office he had abused, he broke rashly forth in slurs upon English diplomacy at the very moment when delicate negotiations, in which our Government was in need of English support, were pending. The President's timely rebuke, of this act, has prevented possible complications; and there is every reason to believe that the United States will have the cordial sympathy of foreign Powers in its wise Mexican policy.

Still, a woman's vanity isn't in it with a man's conceit.

Judging from their actions, a man sometimes wonders if his friends are not enemies in disguise.

Just as a woman quits worrying about her own age she begins to worry about that of her unmarried daughter.

The people who really understand the Mexican situation are about a many as those who really pronounce Huerta's name correctly.

OUR DAILY BREAD

IV.—BAKING AND HANDLING PROCESSES.

By Frederic J. Haskin

While the processes of baking and handling raised breads differ materially, the principles of bread making are the same, for in every case the sponge must be mixed, the mass must be allowed time for the yeast germs to develop the required lightness, and the dough must be cooked by baking in some sort of an oven. These three principles of raised bread making have been recognized by every baker since the time of the pharaohs. The improvement and development of these first essentials constitute the improvement of the modern raised bread whether it is the product of a regular bakery or of the home kitchen. The systems of developing the yeast germs are in common use and each has its followers. There are also a number of compromises between the two distinct methods.

* * *

The results are usually known to the baker as "straight dough" and "sponge dough." The first, which is also known as "off hand" dough, is made by mixing all of the materials at one time and then setting the mass in a warm place to rise for several hours before baking. This method requires more yeast and stronger flour than does the other method in which the yeast is permitted first to grow in an especially favorable medium before being mixed with the main dough. Straight dough also requires a longer time to rise, but upon the other hand it gives a larger yield of bread. Many housewives prefer this method because the dough can be mixed overnight and baked in the morning. It has been unpopular with some bakers because the large quantities of materials require extensive kneading. The improved machinery used in the large modern bakeries overcomes this objection, but it frequently happens that the strong flour required for the development of the yeast in so large a mass makes the bread coarse in texture and also gives it a raw, grainy taste.

* * *

To make sponge dough the yeast is allowed to work for a number of hours in a stiff batter made of a portion of the flour and water. After it has raised sufficiently the other ingredients are added and it is allowed to rise again before being worked out into loaves for baking. Sometimes the full amount of water is used for the sponge and only the required amount of flour is added to make it into a stiff dough. At least the sponge is always "slacker" than the straight dough. Bakers usually set their sponge with their strongest flour. The strong flour gives light elastic quality to the sponge and a weaker flour is used to complete the second mixing. The housewife usually has but one kind of flour, and if she is possessed of good baking judgment she will be able to gauge the amount of moisture to be used and the proper consistency of the dough by the feeling of the flour in her hand, and also by its qualities as developed when moistened.

* * *

The good loaf of baker's bread seldom contains any other material than flour, salt, water, a small quantity of lard or other shortening and the yeast which raises it. The home-made bread, upon the other hand, may have several other ingredients. Many housewives insist that it is impossible to obtain good bread without adding a considerable amount of potato. Frequently the flour with which the sponge is started is scalded with the water in which potatoes have been boiled and the potatoes, finely mashed, are added either to the sponge when it is being started, or less frequently after it has raised, and is ready for the second mixing. In some homes milk is always used instead of water for mixing dough. Most bakers make a small amount of milk bread because some customers ask for it, although it has been decided by food chemists that milk bread is less digestible than that mixed with water because of the cheesy substance of the milk which tends to toughen when baked.

* * *

To most bakers, both in the home and the commercial bakery, the greatest misfortune to be warded off is that of sour bread. This is due to the undue development of the lactic or other acids contained in the dough. A little acid is not harmful, as is proved by the nutritive value of the sweet bread, but when this acidity is pronounced it becomes most unpleasant to the average palate and if far developed may become absolutely injurious. It is usually believed, especially by the housewife, that sour bread is caused by the dough having stood too long during one of the raising periods. Modern chemistry has proved that this acidity may arise from a lack of cleanliness. Old dough left in the baking utensils from the last using may contain the undesirable bacteria which produce the excess acidity. Sometimes, but not often, the undesirable bacteria are found in the flour from which the dough is mixed.

* * *

Next to sourness the most dreaded imperfection in bread is to have it heavy and soggy. This is a fault so common that in some parts of the country the really perfect loaf of bread is unknown. These qualities may be caused by cheap flour, poor in gluten, which will not absorb the water, or by cheap adulterated yeast which will not secure the proper degree of porosity. It may come from insufficient kneading, rising or baking. Heavy bread is the most indigestible food to be obtained in any civilized country. When chewed it rolls up into solid lumps which are difficult for the saliva and gastric juices to penetrate. Frequently bread is found which breaks and crumbles when cut under the knife, and to a few people crumbly bread is desirable. Most persons prefer the loaf which cuts into clean, smooth slices. The crumbly loaf indicates either that the dough has lost its tenacity, by being overworked or that a harsh, dry flour was used without proper fermentation.

* * *

Sticky, slimy bread is the vexation of numerous bead bakers. Such bread when three or four days old becomes light brown in color and peculiar in taste and odor. It is also stringy and the crumb part of a loaf may be pulled into strings several inches long. Experiments made at the Wisconsin experiment station of the department of agriculture showed that this is due to a variety of bacilli known as the potato bacillus. It is sometimes found in flour and has also been known to have been developed upon cakes of compressed yeast which have been kept too long upon the market. These bacilli survive the heat of baking.

* * *

The earliest bread was baked by burying the loaves in hot ashes or placing it upon heated stones. Ovens were then evolved which were heated by a fire within. In most of the older countries this type of oven is still in use. The ancient Egyptians first baked upon a peculiar cone-shaped stone made of pottery. It was portable and had openings below which gave draft to the small fire which was built inside the base. The bread made in small cakes was stuck against the smooth slanting sides and baked first on one side and then the other. It is hard to trace the evolution of this strange little stove to the great elaborately constructed oven of today which can be heated or cooled to any desired temperature by means of the furnaces and ventilating devices.

The Mirth of Princesses

(From H. Noel Williams' "A Rose of Savoy.")

The three princesses delighted in practical jokes and were forever in some scrape or other. One night, at Trianon, they procured a petard and exploded it beneath the window of monsieur's bedchamber. Once, when the court was at Marly, the odor of an exceedingly pungent tobacco was wafted to the king's nostrils as he was on the point of retiring to rest, which, upon inquiry being made, was found to proceed from the apartments of Mme. de Chartres, where she and her sisters were smoking pipes borrowed from the Swiss guard.

Rat-a-tat-tat-a-tat-tat!
The riveters go like that,
The clock strikes zwolf; we're beside ourself—
Rat-a-tat-tat-a-tat-tat!

Under the headline "Davison Rescues Two in Storm" the "Sun" tells how the Pfeiffers were saved at New Rochelle Sunday. "The Pfeiffers sent up a signal for help," says the story. "Their distress was observed first by Mr. Davison, whose power boat had been anchored near there. He gave directions to his engineer to put on full speed and straightway the boat hurried to the aid of the two men. By the time the Skipaki reached the men they were in the water. They were pulled aboard the Skipaki."

There are three things we should like to know—things the "Sun" omits to state: (1) What was the engineer's name, (2) who pulled the men aboard the Skipaki and (3) why does the Socialist party grow?

Why colyumists love the sylvan solitudes: "Oh, we've been on an automobile trip— 600 miles—and we've seen enough funny things to fill your column for a week. What were some of them, dear? (Four minutes) I can't remember all of them, but near Rutland—or was it Plattsburg?—no, Fort Plains, that was it—there was a terribly funny one about shoes repaired. I can't remember the exact wording. . . . You can see so much if you only keep your eyes open."

Perhaps the Gaynorites chose the shovel for their emblem because Gzonzer the mayor is infra dig.

At Hillsdale College, Mich., they have, grab it from the catalogue, "the dean of women and lady students." Let's quote some more: "With rare exceptions, students join one or more of the student literary, Christian, class and other societies, and more or less patronize lectures and other entertainments which are not required by the college, hire carriages, buy confectionery, etc. They do similar things at home. No one can make an enlightened guess upon what another will do about such voluntary matters." No. Such things are between a student and her conscience.

Thence with Tom to the village, where we did go to get bread and milk and I bought my cozen Florence some sweets and looked about the town, which is a fair town and set high in the hills. All the morning at scrivening, and reading of my lord Sulzer who seemeth in a fair way to become discredited of the people. Yet those that do bring the charges, are, I am told, not spotless; and so again am I nonplussed over the ways of politics and feel I am too great a simpleton to fathom the meanings of things. But I hear men I know to be even greater fools than I talk glibly of such matters. Played 2 sets of tennis this day with A. THE BAPTISM

BY DR. FRANK CRANE.

(Copyright, 1913, by Frank Crane.)

Clarice had a baby. It was the wonder of the island. From the old fisherman down by the beach to the Honorable Joneses and Walkers up at the big hotel the baby was the subject of intense discussion. For everybody liked Clarice and her husband, who was a play-actor, and the baby was an amazing compound of the excellences of both.

Clarice wanted the baby baptized. No priest or minister could be found on the island. "Just the same, I shall have the baby baptized," said she. "I'll have Berriman do it." Berriman was a poet, past sixty, and a beautiful failure. Physically he lived on the crusts and edges of things; spiritually he ate of the heart of the world. So one afternoon they had the christening. And Berriman, the poet, spoke, saying:

"Beloved friends, we are here gathered, in the sight of God and in the presence of these witnesses, to baptize this child.

"Baptism is the application of water to the human body, solemnly and formally, as a symbol of the cleansing of the soul. It is a most ancient rite, and is found in all religions.

"It indicates the adoption of a candidate into the membership of the elect.

"There has always been a superior few, an aristocracy in the world.

"There is the apparent or so-called aristocracy, who as a rule are not superior at all; and there is the real aristocracy, who are a secret order known to themselves only.

"We are here to baptize this baby into the real elect, the real upper-tendom, the real church, or ecclesia, or called-out.

"We, therefore, consecrate ourselves to teach this child to take the UPPER THOUGHT as to all things.

"To her flowers shall not be mere plants, but God's thoughts.

"To her stars shall be more than burning words; they shall be eyes of mystery.

"To her men shall not be brutes, whose labor is to be exploited; they shall be brothers, prophets, spirit flames.

"To her the sex feeling, when it comes, shall be as a lily, which, though its roots grow in common soil, yet lifts its pure petals to perfume the air, to make glad the garden, and to greet the sun.

"To her, Events shall not be as the shaking of dice, the fortuity of chance; but they shall be meaningful moves of the Intelligence at work, and which guides men and things by its own perfect plan.

"We consecrate this child to reverence and against flippancy; to justice, and against all lies; to loyalty, and against deception; to love, and against all kinds of hate; to patience, and against petulance; to beauty, and against ugliness; to greatness of mind, of heart and of soul, and the world and to the fellowship of the entire human race, against all littleness and narrowness; to the citizenship of and against all clans, exclusive sects, cliques and cults.

"And this little Citizen of the World and Heiress of the future we commend unto that God who has made no thing common, and to that Master who loved no less than the whole world."

Shortsightedness

(Collier's Weekly.)

Is the Panama-Pacific exposition of 1915 going to taint itself at the outset by an alliance with quackery? Thus it would appear from the announced purpose of the management to offer over the counter the spectacle-selling concession of the enterprise. Protests from the American Optical association, the American Civic association and a number of other sources, on the ground that such procedure would be prejudicial to the eyesight of the public, have thus far made no impression upon the guiding spirits of the function as compared with the $50,000 or so to be gained. Franklin Burt, director of concessions, thus reassures one of the protestants: "I am quite sure that the policy of the exposition as to the protection of their (sic) eyesight will be thoroughly consistent," and President C. C. Moore writes "that if an official concession is granted at the exposition, it will only be to some business firm of high standing." High business standing, doubtless. But of what professional standing or skill? Do these two officials hold that protection of their guests' vision is a negligible consideration? Glasses fitted on purely concessionary and business principles may well ruin any eyesight. As Secretary Myer, of the Minnesota Optometrists' association, points out, the managers, on their own showing take a purely commercial view of the transaction and utterly ignore the fact that better vision is not merely a matter of barter, but of professional skill and service. . . . They state that every care will be taken to fully safeguard the public interest—a promise that has frequently been made before—but the history of all former spectacle-selling concessions has shown that such promises are not and cannot be carried out.

Obviously, to adopt the method of selling this permit to the highest bidder is to invite quackery. Would not Messrs. Moore and Burt do well to consult some specialist on moral and ethical strabismus before committing themselves beyond recall in this matter? Impaired vision for thousands of guests would be a dire aftermath to their fine enterprise.

Preferred Lime-Ade to Ibsen

(New York World.)

Because some members would rather drink lemonade, lime juice, and such things than discuss Ibsen and Bernard Shaw, the Clionian Literary society at Whitestone, Queens, has been disrupted, a rival society formed, and public opinion greatly agitated. Most of the prominent members of the town were members.

William M. Harford, who resigned from the presidency of the society, said that he and others who believed as he did would form a literary club at whose meetings no soft drinks would be served.

"Our club got alone finely," said Mr. Harford, "until somebody brought a bottle of lime juice to a meeting. Since then about half the members have paid no attention to the subject under discussion, but have made it uncomfortable for the rest by their chatting over their lime juice. The climax came last week when a lime juice drunkard lay on his back and laughed right in the middle of a serious speech.

A number of clergymen were among those who followed the president's example and resigned.

Moisture

(Kansas City Star.)

Astronomers have noted on Mars, at recurring intervals, a whitish substance to which they have given the name "snow."

This curious substance is said to be a form of moisture. And lest this term "moisture" should be unfamiliar, it may be explained that it implies aqueous vapor, humidity, wetness, solution, H_2O.

If these terms also are vague in your mind and are unfamiliar to your experience it may be further explained that moisture takes, at times, another form than snow. It takes the form of another curious substance called by astronomers and archaeologists "rain." This rain is transmitted (in those parts of the universe where it is known) from still more curious substances called clouds. The clouds are themselves moisture. Where they have been observed, they gather in the air; so that rain comes from above. It falls. At least this is the report of it by the learned scientific men who claim to have some knowledge of it.

SUNDAY SONGS AND SERMONS

Blue Ridge Conference to Close Sunday With Concert

Most Successful Meeting in History of Baptist Assembly Ends With Mammoth Singing Festival

ALEX W. BEALER.

BLUE RIDGE, Aug. 16.—The annual meeting of the Baptist assembly at Blue Ridge will come to a close on Sunday. It is conceded by those who are in attendance this year that the program has been the best ever given. It was arranged by Mr. George W. Andrews, of Atlanta, the Sunday school secretary of the Baptist state mission board.

The preaching of Dr. P. C. McConnell, of Waxco, Texas, has been the feature of the assembly. He is a native of Texas country and he still loves the mountains and the mountain people. His character sketches from the Bible have been heard by large and appreciative audiences. He has talked on Joseph, Eve, Cain and Abel, Jubal, Enoch, Job, Elezer, Caleb, Samuel, Saul and Ruth and Sunday morning he closed with Jonah, from each of these characters he draws practical lessons that are helpful to the men and women of today.

The concerts being given twice a week have proven very popular and have been heard by large audiences made up from the cottagers and from the people of Blue Ridge and the adjoining country. These annual meetings have had a wonderful influence for good among the mountain people and Blue Ridge has been advanced by them and benefited in every way.

Life on the grounds of the assembly is very pleasant indeed. The center of attraction is the splendid tabernacle, seating about eight thousand dollars. It is on a fine elevation and stretching out in front of it are the assembly grounds, broken and picturesque as one would expect to find in the mountains. There are many trees and here and there a cottage, white or green is seen to gleam from out its sylvan setting. In addition to these there are many tents, the entire people enjoying a little time up here close to the heart of nature. In the center of the grounds is the restaurant presided over by Prof. A. N. Swain, who is as good a caterer as he is a teacher. Here meals that are well prepared are served at very low rates.

Many tired women come up here and live in a cottage, freed from the daily grind of selecting and preparing meals for a hungry household.

The chief attractions of the assembly are the water and the air. There is a sparkle to the former that in fine music to memory the days of long ago when the sparkling spring bubbled up to meet the blow boy's coming, lips when he came to the end of the long and dusty row, and there is a crispness to the latter that weaves anew the body's broken tissues, builds up the overstrained nerves and brings refreshing sleep to weary eyes. It is an unknown condition up here to sleep without covering and very often blankets are needed to keep off the chill that creeps down from the mountains when the sun is down.

Plans are on foot looking to the improvement of the grounds. Much money has been spent in opening and grading roads through the grounds but some improvements such as the electric light system and sewers are demanded as well as waterworks on account of the increasing attendance at the yearly gatherings. It is proposed to make these improvements before the time of the next meeting and then later on a hotel will be erected on the grounds, making this the most popular Baptist meeting place in the south. The Mary Willingham school for girls, when it is finished, will be used during the assembly as a hotel for the accommodation of guests.

Mr. George W. Andrews, the platform manager, has done a splendid work in the selection of speakers and entertainers and has demonstrated that there is a world of talent of different kinds among the Baptists of Georgia.

The assembly for 1913 will close Sunday afternoon with a great song service together with preaching. Hereafter it will be so arranged that each Sunday afternoon there will be preaching and singing at the auditorium following the morning service and dinner on the ground. These services are always largely attended, people coming from fifteen to twenty miles across the mountains to attend them.

ORMEWOOD PARK CHURCH IS NEARING COMPLETION

Presbyterians Erecting Edifice of Stone Mountain Granite, First Church in Suburb

The building of the Ormewood Park Presbyterian church is progressing rapidly and soon that suburb will have one of the prettiest churches in the city. Operations commenced on July 23, after almost the entire citizenship had contributed funds for the church, which will be the first in Ormewood.

The church is being built along Grecian lines and Stone Mountain granite is being used in its construction. A broad verandah is to run the entire width of the front with a roof supported by Corinthian columns.

The building will have a fine basement with fourteen windows. There will be plenty of light, so that Sunday school can be held here. The auditorium will be large and have plenty of light.

May & Wimbish, the contractors, say they expect to finish the building by the middle of October.

Baracas Elect Officers

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

EASTMAN, Ga., Aug. 16.—At a recent meeting of the Baraca class of the First Baptist church of this city, officers for the ensuing quarter were elected.

The following officers were elected: President, C. L. Persons; vice president, Mike Burch; treasurer, N. C. Edwards; secretary, Carr Edwards; press reporter, Claude Sherwin, Jr.; Federal, Lee Sene Bush, assistant librarian, Fred Bennett.

The Baraca class has had a wonderful growth since its organization in January with less than twelve members. It has grown to a membership of about seventy-five. The Baraca class has established a reading room in one of the offices in the Merchants and Farmers Bank building and this is proving quite a popular place with the members.

The Pilot of the Galilean Lake

A little sermon on a great theme.

By Rev. Loy Warwick

Lovest Thou Me? John 21-15.

The Great Teacher had many disciples. A disciple is a lapner, a follower. Many of the followers of the Lord helped Him in His work. Some helped with their substance, some with their faith and prayers and others with their feet and hands and voices.

Early in His ministry Jesus called twelve of the disciples to be His followers and helpers in a special sense. Apostles, ambassadors, they were. They were missionaries and their Master was the master missionary.

These twelve men were closer to the Lord than any of His disciples. They lived with Him and went about with Him doing good. They were His bodyguard, his cabinet and advisory council. Chiefly they were with Him to study the fine art of saving men. They were at school to learn how to save a lost world.

Three of these apostles were especially close to the Lord. They were with Him on the Mount of Transfiguration, and in other experiences of His wonderful life.

Peter was one whom the Lord greatly loved and honored. When He first saw the Galilean fisherman He loved him and could see great usefulness in him.

Andrew first told Peter about the Lord. Andrew does not seem to have been a highly gifted man. We do not read of any great things accomplished as an apostle. But be it remembered that after he had found the Lord he did not stop until he had found his own brother, Simon. The name that Jesus gave to Simon signified a stone. It did not refer to the hardness of his heart, or the coldness of his nature. Peter was a big-hearted, warm-hearted man. The new name was descriptive and prophetic. Simon, or Peter, was to stand like a stone wall in defense of the truth. He had to be tried as gold and silver are tried; but he stood the test and became the leader of the pioneer band.

It was after the three wonderful years, after the crucifixion and resurrection that Jesus shewed Himself to the twelve (or the eleven), at the Sea of Tiberias.

It was early in the morning. All night they had caught nothing. "And He said 'cast your nets on the right side of the ship and ye shall find.'" They obeyed and caught a net full of fishes.

They came to the shore then where they dined and after breakfast Jesus said to Peter, 'Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou Me?". Once, twice, thrice—as often as Peter had denied Him—did the Master ask the question. Now Peter was grieved that he said the third time, "Lovest thou Me?" And he said, "Yea, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love Thee."

Then the Lord gave the disciple the apostolic commission. "Feed My sheep, feed My lambs."

It is impossible to exaggerate the significance of this scene by the seaside. To understand its lessons is to know the genius and greatness of Christianity.

What is religion? It is not rites and rituals, creeds and confessions.

It is not going to church and keeping rules.

The Christian has a creed. He loves the church. He keeps the commandments. But these things do not make him a Christian. Being a Christian is deeper than these things. What is Christianity? Interpreted in the atmosphere of this immortal scene it is personal love for a personal Saviour. Christ will do much for people who really love Him. And He gives them much to do for Him. He was leaving this world and leaving His church very soon after this great morning. The salvation of man and the feeding of His flock lie next to His disciples and their successors. And the only security He asked was that of love for Himself. To love is to fulfill the whole law from Alpha to Omega. Love is better than the wisdom of the scholar, the eloquence of the orator, the zeal of the missionary and the gold of the philanthropist.

It is easy to live and work for the cause or the one you love. It is hard to put yourself out for the things, or the people you do not love. To us He is saying, "Lovest thou Me?" To us He would give a commission to feed the hungry and find the lost sheep. But it is little we can do unless we keep ourselves in the love of God. All the great servants of God and men have been great lovers.

There were many great reasons why Peter should love the Master and be faithful unto death. But the compulsion is just as great on you and me.

We have no right to look down on Peter, or claim any sovereignty to the others who heard the Master speak that beautiful morning. Like them we are poor and needy. Like them we are poorly equipped for service. Like them we have great tasks to do. Like them we need hearts full of love for Christ and His world. Your work in the church, in the home, in the slums, will be easier done when done for His sake. Love's yoke is easy and its burden is light. Love sheds a soft and glorious light on the Christian's pathway, making it brighter and brighter until the erfect Day.

Love is the greatest thing in the world.

SUNDAY SCHOOL TOPICS

AUGUST 17, 1913.

(Copyright, 1912, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.)

Crossing the Red Sea. Ex. xiii:17—xiv:31.

Golden Text—Before they call I will answer. Isa. lxv:24.

(1.) Verses 17-18—God took special care to direct the route of the Israelites in the least dangerous way, why may we, or not, conclude from this that God with the same loving care directs the life of every real Christian?

(2.) What does it indicate when we take a long time and seem to be led in a very roundabout way to the goal for which we are heading?

(3.) What is the evidence, if any, that God never permits us to encounter enemies for which we are not a fair match?

(4.) Verse 19—When and where did Joseph make them swear that they would carry his bones with them when they left Egypt?

(5.) Is it folly or wisdom, and why, to be anxious of what will become of our dead bodies?

(6.) Verses 20-22—What is your conception of this pillar of fire and cloud by which God guided the Israelites?

(7.) What method does God adopt today in guiding His people, and why would you say, or not, that it is better than any other method?

(8.) Chapter xiv:1-9—The expression, "And the Lord spake unto Moses," is of frequent occurrence in this story. What does it literally mean?

(9.) Would you say or not, and why, that God guides His people in matters when common sense or ordinary precaution are sufficient for the purpose?

(10.) Verse 4—Did God harden Pharaoh's heart by a direct influence or through the general laws governing human nature? Give your reasons.

(11.) When a man resists the light, goes contrary to his conscience, until he finally believes that wrong is right, and his heart is hardened toward those whom he oppresses, why would it be right or wrong to say God hardened his heart?

(12.) By what process of reasoning did Pharaoh persuade himself that he was justified pursuing Israel?

(13.) Verses 10-12—In what way would you censure the Israelites for their fear, their reproaches of Moses and for their wish that they had never left Egypt?

(14.) What sort of thanks, as a rule, do the average Sunday school teacher, temperance and social reformer and others who are trying to uplift and help their fellows get from them for whom they labor?

(15.) Verses 13-14—When the good men and women who spend their time in helping their fellows "get more kicks than coppers" do their faint what ought they to do? What did Moses do?

(16.) If we know we are on God's side of any subject is there any need to fear? Why?

(17.) Verse 15—When we are up against any great difficulty what is the thing to do?

(18.) When is praying folly?

(19.) Verses 26-29—What right is there for success to those who are against God or expectation for failure to those who are on God's side?

(20.) Verses 21-22—What was the fate of Pharaoh and his army and what is always the fate of the wicked?

Motor Races Are Postponed Once More

For the Fourteenth Time, the Motor Races Went by the Board Friday Night—Same Program Will Be Run Off on Saturday

As usual the rain butted in and spoiled the events which were scheduled at the Motordrome for Friday night. The steady drizzle and mist which kept up all afternoon rendered the track too slick for the riders to think of riding, and so the races were put off until Saturday night, at which time the same schedule will be run.

The program includes three races, a special match race between Graves, Lochner and Swartz. Two two-mile heats, and a three-mile heat will be run, the best two in three winning, a sweepstakes race in which the French point system is to be used, and a motordrome purse race which is to consist of two one mile qualifying heats and a two-mile final. Here is the complete program.

MOTORDROME PURSE.

(One mile to qualify; two-mile final. Two men in each heat to qualify for final.)

First Heat—Swartz, Graves, Richards and Glenn.

Second Heat—Lewis, Luther, Renel and Lochner.

SPECIAL MATCH RACE.

(One, two and three-mile heats—best two out of three heats.

First Heat—Swartz, Lochner and Graves.

Final of Motordrome Purse—Two miles.

VELEDROME DE BUFFALO SWEEPSTAKES.

(French point system. Ten points for first, 6 for second and 3 for third. Distance, 3, 5 and 7 miles.)

First Heat, Three Miles—Richards, Renel, Glenn, Luther and Lewis.

Second Heat of Special Match Race, Two Miles — Swartz, Lochner kand Graves.

Second Heat of Sweepstakes, Five Miles—Richards, Renel, Glenn, Luther and Lewis.

Third Heat of Special Match Race, Three Miles—Swartz, Lochner and Graves.

Third Heat of Sweepstakes, Seven Miles—Richards, Renel, Green, Luther and Lewis.

CHANGES FOR JUST A DAY

Mobile won another game, this time from the cellarites. Montgomery won from Memphis and Atlanta made double defeat at the hands of the Lookouts shoves them down almost to the level of Birmingham. Mobile is compiling quite a healthy lead.

The Giants, with the assistance of Fromme, took one away from St. Louis by a 6 to 1 score, increasing their lead over Philadelphia to 65 points. Philadelphia won in the eleventh from Cincinnati.

The Phillies walked away with their nearest rivals, the Naps, and increased their lead to 72 points. Walter Johnson won for the Senators, placing them 52 points behind Cleveland.

Second Two Game Affair Played Today

Double to Be Somewhat of a Grudge Contest—Thompson and Voss to Work Against Grimes and Howell—Long Back in the Game

Today's game will be a come back affair for the Crackers. After winning five straights, and relegating their old rivals, the dwellers in the Slaghcap, to obscurity by a three-game defeat, they returned to their own back lot, and tied one and dropped two to the Lookouts.

Friday was an off day, in the way of weather and umpires, and the team followed the bad example set and took one off too. Today, however, there will be a different tale to tell, and the Crackers are out to balance off Friday's agair by taking a double bill from the Lookouts.

As to battery work, Chapman, will hardly get back into the line-up before next week, and so Joe Dunn will have to do the catching, while Carl Thompson, the only Cracker who has not hurled since the team's return will go in to pitch the first, and Voss, the new recruit who was sent in as a pinch hitter in the first game Friday, and worked a few innings in fine form, will be given a shot at the second. Voss, by the way, delivered at the proper time when he was called on.

For Chattanooga Grimes and Howell will probably do the box work, while Graham and Street will again divide the rough work.

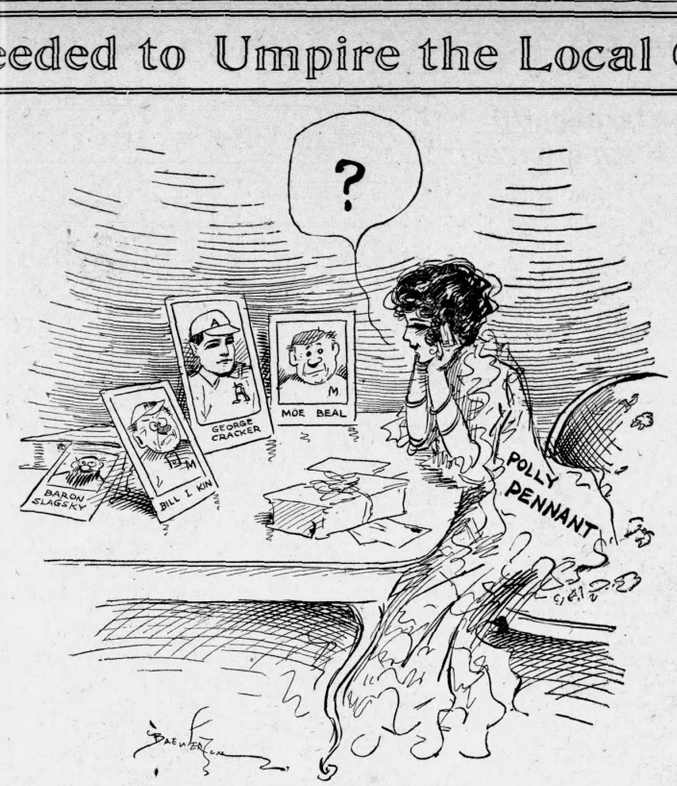
Adams to Philadelphia

SAVANNAH, Ga., Aug. 16.—It was announced last night that Pitcher "Rebel" Adams, of the Savannah South Atlantic league club, has been sold to the Philadelphia Americans for fall delivery. The price was not given out. Adams distinguished himself last month by pitching a no-hit, no-run game against the Charleston club.



THE FICKLE MAIDEN

SOUTHPAWS WON GAMES; UMPIRING PROVED RANK

With Rudy Sommers pitching the first game and Pole Coveleskie doing box duty in the second the visiting Chattanooga club got away with a brace of victories Friday in the most miserably umpired and most farcical exhibition of the game yet seen here. The score in the first game was 2 to 1 and in the second the Lookouts got away with a 6-2 battle. And both victories were deserved.

The game was featured by the lack of umpiring ability shown by both Hart and Fifield, the uncalled for though expected, beefing of Kid Elberfeld, an attempt at dirty tactics by Mickey Coyle and the poor and dilatory article of baseball shown by both clubs. The throwing of cushions at the umpire was uncalled for, as neither are expected to do any real umpiring after the manner in which they allowed players of both clubs to run over them in the rendering of just any decision.

The first game went nine innings and consumed two hours and thirty minutes, taking out the fifteen-minute delay owing to rain. A beautifully executed squeeze play in the first inning by Walsh and Coyle paved the way for the victory, while in the second erratic pitching and poor baseball gave us a hand down. Dent and Love worked the first game and Price and Voss the last. Dent was below form. Love was wild, as was Price, while Voss pitched under very depressing circumstances as to umpiring and fielding back of him. Voss and Love were both a bit rattled by the umpiring, as they have just come up from the bushes and are accustomed to fairly good umpiring.

First Game.

After Dee Walsh had started the game with a double and been advanced to third on an out he scored on Coyle's excellent bunt, the squeeze being worked in jam-up order.

Calvo made one grand catch from Summers' bat in the fifth when he went almost to the score board and pulled down a long drive while on the dead run. It was too far back for Welchonce.

Wallace Smith came near breaking up the game in the sixth with a drive to center. Luckily Elberfeld had been banished from the game and Giddo, who was in his place, made the catch almost against the center field signs.

Dee Walsh robbed Bisland of a sure hit in the fourth when he got his chest in the way of the ball and stopped it.

Joe Agler and Harry Holland both pulled neat fielding plays in the eighth on Johnson's bunt. Joe fielded the ball swiftly and threw to third, but Holland made the trap for an out.

With the aid of the fence Graff was able to retire Holland in the second inning. Graff trapped the ball against the stand, but the umps "was not looking."

It was Voss who drove out the hit that scored Holland with Atlanta's lone run. This came in the ninth inning.

Second Game.

The second game ended 6 to 2.

In the first inning it was a walk to Welchonce, a triple by Smith and a double by Bisland that produced the two runs, but after that the ball game was suspended while the farce was staged.

The Lookouts got three in the third and as many in the fourth. In each round three hits and two or three errors did the work.

Mickey Coyle came in for his Elberfeld play in the first inning when he fanned on an attempted squeeze play with Walsh on third. He then deliberately ran several feet out of the batter's box and blocked Joe Dunn, who was trying to throw to third to catch Walsh, who had stuck to the bag. Coyle then had the nerve after wallowing all over Dunn to attempt to run to first base.

Graff, Williams, Street and Coveleskie are not good enough for this league if their batting in the fourth and fifth innings is to be taken as an example of their work. It was either a missed strike or a hard bunt at the pitcher each time they got up.

Bisland pulled a most spectacular play when he raced back of third and knocked down Street's hot grounder and then threw this slow runner out at first. The runner from third scored, but Bizzy got the batter.

UMPIRES WITHOUT NERVE; GAME IS BEING RUINED

It hath been said that Jellyfish are of the spineless variety of animal all of which makes us believe most certainly that Hart and Fifield, both of whom were on the field at Friday's alleged ball games between Atlanta and Chattanooga, are not of the umpire class.

Really there was no baseball at the park. It was purely and simply a guessing contest with Hart and Fifield dividing the honors, and from this time on they may have a place in any little guessing contest. They guessed at balls, they guessed at strikes and gussed at the base decisions. Sometimes they were right, it being only natural that one of a million decisions would have to hit in the right spot, but they were wrong and every player on the two clubs at some time or another kicked more strenuously only to be tolerated by the umpires at the expense of 4,000 fans who wished for the games to get through at some reasonable hour they could eat dinner before midnight.

Both Hart and Fifield most clearly demonstrated that they are without authority. They are not respected by the players. They cannot keep order on the field. They are easily bulldozed. When a real umpire like one of the Norman Elberfeld class gets after them. They are influenced by the hoots and jeers of the crowd. And summed up to its last analysis they are not the kind of men to umpire baseball where it is the wish of the league to keep in good standing with their fans.

Atlanta should have lost both games. The team played exceedingly rotten ball. But that is neither here nor there and does not figure in the least in the statement of facts concerning the farce staged by Messrs. Hart and Fifield.

In the first game the rain came up with Chattanooga leading, 1 to 0. After the fifth inning Manager Norman Elberfeld, that peaceful little leader of the Chattanooga club, notified Umpire Fifield in no uncertain terms that he wished the game called. The umpire told him that he would have the game progress a bit further, and when Elberfeld again objected he was banished from the game. This, however, did not keep the Chattanooga manager from keeping his men sitting on the bench while the rain got harder and finally forced the game to be called.

Later it was *resumed and Atlanta lost*s, and lost legitimately.

But that second game.

This man Hart was umpiring balls and strikes and just take a gentle hint that it was the grandest exhibition of the great guessing game ever shown the local public. But this is not what angered the fans and caused Hart to be made the target for cushions from the stands. It was his lack of authority which allowed the game to become a farce, all the players of both teams deliberately doing just opposite from his instructions.

In the third inning it was most noticeably too dark for a game to be continued. All players were at a disadvantage at the plate, though Hart guessed just as well as the start, it not being necessary for him to see the plate or ball to render a decision. But was the game stopped? It was not. Hart forced the teams to play the five innings and then declared it all off at 6:25 p. m.

The last two innings were the worst exhibition of the game ever shown here. Both teams were guilty of delays detrimental to the sport and yet Hart did not have the nerve to forfeit the game or stick any fines. When the Atlanta players were in the field they refused to field the ball, while the Chattanooga players at bat either bunted directly at the pitcher or fanned. Often they struck at balls that were wild pitches and when bunting to the pitcher they were unable to beat the throw to first, though the slashman juggled the ball for some minutes. In other words, the game was just one of these pluperfect farces abated and promoted by rank umpiring.

About the only amusing incident connected with the second game was the kicking of Elberfeld at what he described as dilatory tactics of the Cracker club. And yet in the first game the manager had been banished for delaying play. But then that is just like the class of ball players who always are a detriment to the game.

The game was finally called at 6:25 when five innings had been played, though on Thursday a perfectly good 3-3 tie game was stopped at 6:05 owing to darkness, and the weather of late Friday was just as bad or worse than that of Thursday.

Atlanta Club Must Demand Real Umpires

Such Work as Shown by Hart and Fifield Hurts Game, and League Head Should Come to the Rescue

For the sake of good baseball, the Southern league and fans who daily contribute their hard earned money to witness baseball games, President W. M. Kavanaugh should send to Atlanta two umpires and not a pair of weaklings like Bill Hart and Fifield. The league president has in the past aways stood for the best interests of the league and if it is his policy to continue this work he should at once give Atlanta umpires, real umpires.

Right now the Atlanta club has a long home stay. The team is making a hot race for a good position in the race. Many of the teams that visit here have lost money and depend upon getting a good share of coin from the games here, and to knock all these good intentions in the head by killing off the crowd with such umpiring as was shown in the Friday mixup is detrimental to the league.

Of course, if Hart and Fifield are ordered somewhere else it will be a severe hardship upon that berg and doubtless the kicks will be loud and long, but then the games here are much more important than in some of the cities and it would be better to help the league as a whole by making the shift.

Absolutely Atlanta stands not a chance of losing in case the umpires are switched and two new ones sent here. There are none who could do any rougher work than that accomplished by Hart and Fifield on Friday. You know when the impossible is reached it can't go past. We have the worst with us and will note with interest just how much interest the league president takes in the league by the action he takes.

Champion May Lose an Eye

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Matthew McGrath, Olympic champion hammer thrower, probably will lose the sight of one eye as the result of a fight in the lobby of a Broadway theater at midnight last night. Five men who sought to buy tickets to the roof garden of the theatre were prevented by a special policeman, who judged them intoxicated and attempted to eject them from the lobby. The men resisted and the officer summoned McGrath, who is employed as a special officer for the roof garden. In resisting the efforts of the two officers, one of the men swung and struck McGrath in the right eye.

The athlete, blinded and suffering intense pain, fell to the floor unconscious.

He was *rushed to a nearby police sta*tion, where a physician put twelve stitches in the athlete's face, and said that the pupil of the eye had been so injured that probably McGrath would not be able to see with it again.

The five men who engaged in the fight were arrested, when reinforcements arrived. The man said by the police to be the one who injured McGrath, is charged with felonious assault. He described himself as John Brink, 35 years old, a civil engineer of this city.

McGrath was to go to Albany today to participate in athletic games and from there was going to Cincinnati for the same purpose.

BY GRANTLAND RICE

SAME OLD STUFF.

We lamp the run of graft which rages through the land,
We rail about the octopus and trusts on every hand,
We roar about monopolies and raise an awful stew,
Believing in our simmple way that all such things are new;
I'm laying even money that the same old stuff held sway
And grafters hit three hundred back in old King Pharaoh's day.

We have our run of strikes today—the clash about the label—
The unions called a bigger strike when they were building Babel;
They raised a clamor that has swept and echoed down the ages,
And drew more space than Mathewson upon the sporting pages;
We say the rich are richer now and wail aloud in woe,
But old Kid Croesus led his league five thousand years ago.

When Colonel Noah built the ark his friends and neighbors chaffed.
And said, "The old boy owns a yacht; say, tell me, what's his graft?"
And old Diogenes in vain went stalking through the clan
Of legislators packed in bulk to find an honest man;
The world is pretty much the same—I'll bet they took some jay
And sold him for "another Cobb" in old King Pharaoh's day.

Chicago and Pittsburg have conceded the pennant for 1913. And unless some abnormal eruption sits in, the 1914 concession might as well be furnished now as in next August.

American league batsmen are said to be drawing up a petition to have Walter Johnson impeached and retired to private life. The claim is made that Johnson is investing more stuff upon the batt tnan any bat can reach. This is important if they can prove it. But so far it is only hearsay. How can a cove tell what's on a ball that he can't see?

These are morose and melancholy days for minor league clubs able to show a youngster who can stand upon both legs and peg a baseball from one spot to another. Material is so scarce that $5,000 for such a prodigy is small money. If the club can show that said youngster is also able to bring a bat around the price rises from $5,000 to $10,000 or $18,000, or whatever money a major league club has left.

High prices paid for minor leaguers of promise are easy enough to understand. They merely follow a natural law. When a great many young ball players are wanted and only a few are hanging around, it is natural enough that these few should attract the kale. If it wasn't for the sale of budding talent many a minor league township would be tottering at the windup.

Purchasing the festive minor leaguer is one of the greatest little gambles ever installed. Larry Chappelle cose $18,000 and Ty Cobb cost $500. Marty O'Toole is listed at $22,500, while Walter Johnson cost $50. Connie Mack's infield cost les than $1,000, while Frank Chance paid $10,000 for one young third baseman.

Ball clubs in the second division are lucky to break even on the total investment. Those winning a pennant are often good ror $300,000 with the world series coin attached. Hence the frenzied scramble for any youngster who looks able bodied enough to cary a bat to the plate.

Nothing, they say, ever bothers young Jack McDermott in a round at golf. If we were able to shoot 71s consistently we have an idea that we, too, might drift around with a fair amount of serenity and poise.

In the same way it has often been noted that Walter Johnson has a wonderfully even and serene temperament. Just why should a pitcher with more stuff than the other bloke can hit be inclined to harass his soul with any doubt or misgivings? The citizen who isn't quite there is the one due for fluttering duck fits, not the master of the situation.

ALEC SMITH'S INVICTUS.

Out of the blight that covers me,
Dark as the pit from pole to pole,
I landed neatly from the tee,
But took four putts to reach the hole.

And standing there before the crowd,
When I had made my fourtime bid,
Did I rise up and curse aloud?
You bet your bally life I did.

While a number of ballplayers have taken up golf, we haven't heard of any $18,000 being paid for their ability to bat .350 from the tee to the pin.

CARL THOMPSON RECALLED; OTHER PLAYERS GO HIGHER

Carl Thompson, the ex-Georgia and Cracker hurler, has been recalled by the New York Americans. Manager Frank Chance exercised the privilege of the recall Friday night and it was announced by President Ban Johnson. The New York club waited until the last day allowed before they finally decided to recall Thompson, but they evidently thought him too good a pitcher not to have some string tied to him. He will report to them at the end of the present Southern league season.

There were two other players that went to Ban Johnson's league from Atlanta. Wallop Smith and Slim Love were drafted to the Washington club by Manager Clark Griffith. The Senators had their pick of two Crackers and after Holland had been bought outright, they decided on the two Crackers mentioned. Both have good chances in fast company. Smith's work in the infield and at bat has meant many games for Atlanta and the management recognized his value when they made him field captain after Whitey Alperman was forced to retire. Love given good promise as a pitcher and a little more seasoning is about all he needs.

There were other deals involving Southern league players to and from the American league clubs. Detroit took Bert Grover from the 'Noogas; Cavet from the Gulls and Clancy became the property of New Orleans by failure to exercise their option on him. Cleveland recalled Brenton from New Orleans and Washington left Pitcher Clark to Atlanta and Montreal.

Pirates Need Joe Conzelman

At the last minute on Friday night, President Callaway received a letter from the Pittsburg Pirates recalling Joe Conzelman from the Atlanta team.

Atlanta held Joe under the optional agreement, and if he had not been released last night he would have been a Cracker property. The Pirates, however, wanted him back, and so exercised their right of recall.

Westlunder Wins Mt. Baker Marathon

BELLINGHAM, Wash., Aug. 16.—Paul Westlunder, of California, won the annual Mount Baker marathon today, finishing the course in 9 hours 33 minutes and 48 seconds. There were nine contestants. The course was 100 miles long, but the contestants were carried in automobiles to the foot of the trails and back. The actual endurance contest covered a course of 31 miles up and down the mountain, which has a height of 11,000 feet.

Pros Are Superior GOLF At Accuracy On Greens

Forty-two inch shafts in wooden clubs are long enough for leading professionals to get enough speed and snap into their shots to outdrive the amateurs. In addition to being shorter, the clubs used by the pros will be found to average very much lower in weight.

Braid, Vardon, Taylor and Herd, four of the greatest British professionals who between them have practically monopolized the open championship and accomplished feats of scoring approaching if not surpassing imagination, all use forty-one and one-half and forty-two inch drivers.

The average amateur, on the other hand, uses wooden clubs ranging from forty-three to forty-five inches in length. The greater leverage apparently demands a slightly heavier head, and the result is an implement more difficult to swing with accuracy and harder to control.

A few years ago there was a fad of fifty-five-inch drivers, and many pros did a land office business in making the fishing poles for amateurs. So far as my observation when, I only found three pros who ever used one of the long shafts in competition, and I think they only did so for baiting purposes, so to speak.

There is no question but what a firmly hit ball from one of the long clubs would go further by reason of the greater leverage, but the added risk of inaccurate hitting more than offset any possible advantage of distance.

Braid is a man standing over six feet tall, so there is no possible opportunity for tall amateurs arguing that because they stand over five feet nine inches they need longer shafts. A sudden shift to shorter clubs may cause temporary embarrassment, but after a few rounds the player will be amazed at the increasing accuracy he is attaining.

The driver at say forty-two inches, the brassey at forty-one and one-half inches, and the spoon or cleek at forty and one-half or forty-one inches will be found much more effective weapons than longer implements.

The modern lively golf ball does not have to be hit as hard as the old style solid gutta percha ball to secure all he distance that is essential for low scoring. The trick is to hit the ball accurately with as great speed as possible as the club head comes to the ball and follows through.

STRAIGHT DRIVE.

Johnson Out After Record

Walter Johnson now has thirteen straights to his credit. Having passed the American league record for the season of eleven straights, which was set by his teammate, Lefty Boehling, he is now out for a little record all his own.

The rain jinx has been following Washington for a week, and so, Johnson has not pitched a game since he humbled Cleveland by a score of 4 to 3, making his twelfth straight.

On Friday he let the Tigers down with ten hits and seven runs, his teammates getting sixteen hits and nine runs.

Johnson has six more straight wins before he can come up to the mark set by Rube Marquard.

Keeler After Stahl's Job

BOSTON, Aug. 16.—With the disposal of Jake Stahl as leader of the Boston Red Sox and the appointment of Catcher Bill Carrigan to the job, a score of applications have been received for the 1914 management.

In the list is one from Willie Keeler.

Keeler, a member of the "Big Four," which included Johnny McGraw, Joe Kelley and Hughey Jennings, has never had a trial as a major league manager, while the others have been in there. Kelley was the only one who failed to make good.

Officials of the Red Sox refuse to say whether Carrigan will continue as manager next year or if some one else will be selected.

Snodgrass Is Playing Game

Even His Harshest Critics Have Ceased to Knock and Are Boosting

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Fred Snodgrass, who is just now very busy writing a .320 batting average and a series of sensational fielding stunts into the records for the Giants, is rapidly living down the criticism and abuse heaped on him for his error in the late world's series. The blush is now on the other cheek, so to speak, and those who were loudest in their condemnation of McGraw's center fielder last fall are now shouting his praises.

Snodgrass has been the sensation of the Giants this season. With the exception of his first year on the club, the Californian has never been a very good hitter. His range was around .240, which is some distance from the select .300 class as hitting goes. This season, without any warning, Fred started to whale the ball, and by degrees worked himself across the .300 mark and continued on. He and Fletcher are now leading the balance of the club in hitting, this including Meyers and Doyle, the former demon sluggers of McGraw's contingent.

Snodgrass came through with his batting streak at a most opportune time, too. He started his batting rise when Doyle was in a slump and maintained the average which it was formerly Captain Larry's duty to keep toned up.

It is a peculiar coincidence that two of the Giants who came in for criticism for their work in world series games have redeemed themselves by having good seasons the following years. Murray, after going hitless in the series with the Athletics, came back and had a great season in 1912, and was a big factor against the Red Sox. Snodgrass only needs to star in a world's series now to completely erase the smudge from his baseball escutcheon.

World Series On October 6

CHICAGO, Aug. 16.—President Ban Johnson Thursday said that the national commission had decided to start the world's championship series on Monday, October 6, provided the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans win. It has been planned, according to Mr. Johnson, to have a firstclass band amuse the spectators who fill the ball parks hours before the game.

It is probable that the New York Nationals and the Chicago Americans will play a brief series here before they begin their tour of the world.

HOW CLUBS PLAY TODAY

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Mobile and New Orleans were to meet in the second game of the series this afternoon with Campbell and Schmidt working for the visitors and Glavenich and Yantz for the locals. Mobile plays the last game here Sunday.

Manager Finn, of Mobile, refused to deny or affirm the report from Mobile that Captain Starr would succeed him as manager next season. Pitcher W. B. Robertson, spiked in yesterday's game, will be able to play in ten days, according to Finn.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 16.—A double-header is scheduled for this afternoon between Nashville and Birmingham and both teams are on edge to win. Nashville will use Fleharty and Hinton as twirlers with Gibson catching, while Birmingham will use Evans and Gregory in the two games as pitchers with Mayer as catcher. Weather cool and fair.

Fairburn Won Game By Timely Hitting

FAIRBURN, Ga., Aug. 15.—Fairburn won from the Independents yesterday by the score of 8 to 4. The score stood 4 to 0 till the fourth inning in favor of the Independents, but the Fairburn boys tightened up and held them scoreless the rest of the game. The feature of the game was the batting of W. Green and Bowen, and also the pitching of W. Green.

Cotton States Meet Held Here

The cotton states tennis championship will be played off on the Atlanta Athletic club's clay courts at East Lake beginning September 8. This is the third annual tournament for this section. No tournament was held last year, but there were tournaments in 1910 and 1911.

The present titleholder is Lee Allen Brooks, of Birmingham, who won the championship in 1911. The winner of the coming tournament will have the right to challenge him. The double title is held by Brooks and Bartlett, of Birmingham, but they are required to play through the tournament.

A large number of entrants are expected from the southern states. Augusta, Birmingham, Knoxville, Chattanooga, Macon and other cities will no doubt send entries up from the country clubs there. Atlanta will be well represented by players from the Athletic club here and from the city at large. There are a number of younger players who have been taking adantage of every opportunity to get into fast play by entering the tournaments held here and a large number of them are expected to enter the coming tournament and are sure to be heard from. Among them are Harry Hallman, Hardy Hall, H. M. Ashe, Jr., Vernon Hallman, Roff Simms, Tye Jennings and others.

The regular old guard will no doubt be seen in action. In fact, the play for the final honors is more than likely to be between some of them. Carleton Smith, B. M. Grant, Eston Mansfield, Ed Carter, Nat Thornton, Carl Ramspeck, besides other local club players, will fight it out again.

Entries for the tournament will close Saturday, September 6, at 6 p. m. All entries should be addressed to Carleton Y. Smith, 608 Walton building, Atlanta.

Frank Recalls Many Players

Manager Charles Frank, the leader of the Pels, has notified Secretary J. H. Farrell that the local club would exercise its options on the following players: Knuupp, of Montgomery; Gudger, of Pensacola; Peddy and Kraft, of Clarksdale; Mexell, Tepe, Williams and Kibble, of Evansville. Frank is more than pleased with the work of his pitching staff now that Glavenich has proven no lemon. His plans are to work Glavenich, Walker, Wilson and Stevenson in their regular turns, with Green as a rescue twirler.

Jim Bagby, who has been out of the game with a broken wrist, came around yesterday with his hand out of the splints. Bagby thinks he'll be able to twirl again in a few weeks.—New Orleans Exchange.

Many Play in Newport Meet

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—Many aspirants for national lawn tennis championship honors in singles arrived in this city today for the all-comers tournament which begins on the casino courts on Monday.

The tournament will be the 33 in the history of the United States National Lawn Tennis association and it is expected that Maurice E. McLoughlin, of San Francisco, title holder, and star of the American team which lifted the Davis cup, will be one of the contenders. Under the recent rules of the association, the champion is compelled to play through the tournament.

McLoughlin will make his first appearance since the Davis cup matches Monday when with T. C. Bundy, also of California, he will defend the national doubles championship title against John Strachan and Clarence Griffin, two more Pacific coast players and the winners in the preliminary tournament at Chicago last week. This match will be the only doubles event played at Newport.

Cincy Gets Pitcher

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 16.—Pitcher Dave Davenport, of the San Antonio Texas league club, was Friday sold to the Cincinnati National league club for a price said to be in excess of $4,000.

Reserve Force Always There

When the Extra Spurt Was Needed This Horse Was Right on Job

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 16.—Frank Bogash, Jr., driven by Thomas W. Murphy, today won in straight heats the eighteenth renewal of the chamber of commerce stake for 2:13 class pacers and established a new record for the event—2:02 3-4. The race was the feature of the second day of the Grand Circuit meet here. Farra easily captured the 2:16 trot; Etawah was best in the 2:10 trot, while Eddie Dillard won the 2:06 pace after a hot contest.

The struggle for the chamber of commerce prize was between Frank Bogash, Jr., and Leata J. On the strength of her performances in previous starts, the mare had been considered the probable winner, but when the final tests came Murphy's gelding always had the most in reserve. Each heat was hard fought. In the first, Stetbrine Lad led to the three-quarters, with Leata J. and Frank Bogash, Jr., close up. Coming into the stretch Leata J. and Bogash pulled away and in the drive for home the mare was left a length behind. Not until the distance flag was reached in the second heat did Murphy's horse show in front, but he again outlasted the mare. The last half of this heat was covered in 1:00 3-4.

In the final round Frank Bogash, Jr., trailed Leata J. and Stetbrine Lad to the head of the stretch when he came around on the outside. There was a whipping finish with Murphy's horse a length ahead at the wire. In the last heat Frank Bogash, Jr., lowered the stake record of 2:03, set by The Eel in 1908.

Veteran Ed Geers made his first appearance of the week behind the wonderful colt Etawah in the 2:10 trot. Pitted against Ed Campaigners, the son of Al Stanley trotted without a skip or falter, taking all three heats in fast time.

The 2:06 pace furnished the greatest contest of the day. In close finishes Knight Onwardo, Molly Darling and Eddie Dillard each won a heat. In the second and third rounds the field was so close bunched and scant noses separated first and second horses at the wire. Only the heat winners came out for the final. Molly Darling and Knight Onwardo raced heads apart around to the stretch, with Eddie Dillard at their heels. In the last eighth Dillard forced Onwardo into a break and won in a common jog.

Hydroplane for Astor

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 16.—Vincent Astor is about to take up hydroplaning. A new boat or sea sled, as it is called, much resembling a bob sled, with a V-shaped bottom, was delivered here for him yesterday. The hull is made of mahogany and a builder's trial around the harbor showed that the boat, which can seat five persons and which will be used as a tender to the Noma, the Astor yacht, will be able to make twenty-eight to thirty knots an hour between the yacht and the shore.

Mr. Astor has not seen the boat yet, but he will return today from a short cruise on the Noma.

TINKER WON'T QUIT.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 16.—"Joe" Tinker, manager of the Chicago baseball team, now playing in this city, when asked regarding rumors that he intended to resign because of criticism over the standing of the team in the race for the pennant, replied he would not quit "under fire." He admitted that there was some friction between himself and others connected with the management.

HIGHER CABLES AND DRY WEATHER CAUSE ADVANCE

Market in New York Closed 3 to 5 Points Higher Than the Previous Close

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—This week a renewal of buying at the opening of the cotton market this morning and first prices were 3 to 5 points up. Higher cables and the failure of official weather advices to indicate any break in the Texas drouth encouraged support and the market sold 10 to 11 points higher during the early trading. There were reports of rain in Oklahoma, however, and the market reacted 4 to 5 points before the end of the first hour.

WEEKLY COTTON REVIEW.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Crop deterioration reports from the southwest failed to stimulate any general support in the cotton market during the past week, and while somewhat modified today, were generally unfavorable in spite of the remained of a bearish average, owing to the reported procrastination of spinners, unfavorable foreign crop advices, and the prospect of a large crop movement. Continued dry weather in Texas and Oklahoma and the old crop situation have restricted offerings, however, and although prices made new low ground on Thursday, the market has displayed more nervousness than actual weakness, with scattering shorts showing a disposition to cover on comparatively small profits. A private report, published today, confirmed daily advices of deterioration in the southwest, making the average condition of the crop 78.4 against 83.8 two weeks ago, and combined with continued drouth, as well as an apprehension that a large short interest has been accumulating, caused a sharp rally during today's trading. There seemed to be less trade support than usual, and on this advance than covering of shorts, however, and it appears that in spite of favorable weather in the western belt, and comparatively low condition, the average operator is still optimistic regarding supplies, owing to the expectation of a very large crop east of the river. Beyond this, and without definite data for estimation of ultimate crop and requirements for the season, bearish views are still based on a conviction that mills will buy very slowly this autumn, owing to unsettled industrial conditions, a conservative attitude in financial circles, the serious political or legislative uncertainties at home and abroad, and the belief that the great weight of the early movement is looked upon as an inroad certain sooner or later to appear in bearish circles, while more bullishly disposed traders argue that because of short interest that this view has probably created, and the general tendency to wait for a decline on which to buy for actual needs, absorption may prove active enough to provide a ready outlet for the crop without any material set back pressures on the market during the height of the picking season.

WORLD'S VISIBLE SUPPLY STATEMENT.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Secretary Hester's statement of the world's visible supply of cotton, made up from special cable and telegraphic advices, compared the figures of this week with last week, last year and the year before. It shows a decrease for the week just closed of 165,010, against a decrease of 267,000 last year and a decrease of 36,240 year before last.

The total visible to be 2,106,570, against 2,301,580 last week, 2,139,610 last year and 1,923,240 year before last. Of this the total of American cotton is 1,040,570, against 1,154,580 last week, 1,353,676 last year and 752,923 year before last, and of all other kinds, including Egypt, Brazil, India, etc., 1,147,000, against 1,207,000 last week, 786,000 last year and 836,000 year before last.

The total world's visible supply of cotton as above shows a decrease compared with last week of 195,012, an increase compared with last year of 56,894, and an increase compared with year before last of 607,647.

HAYWARD & CLARK COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 16.—Efforts towards a short scare were evidently made in Liverpool, also where futures advanced 5 points more than due, while spots are quoted 10 points higher, and 3,000 bales. Cable reports shows covering freely, fearing the crop news from Texas and Oklahoma.

Anticipation of a bullish Times-Democrat report Monday on the western states with the strong weekly apprehension for the central states was instrumental to the advance in Liverpool and this city.

Private reports show precipitation over a large area of Oklahoma several days, but not enough now in Texas, but indications are in favor of precipitation becoming more general over the western states over Sunday, followed by cooler weather. Precipitation is also indicated for Arkansas and showers on the west side of the belt.

First trades here were at unchanged figures, but the market soon gained 6 points on the governments forecast of fair weather in the west over Sunday. Selling pressure was also held in suspense by anticipation of a bullish Times-Democrat report and less favorable crop reports next week from prominent crop inspectors who left yesterday for the west to investigate.

Market prospects for next week depend on weather developments on the west. Without rains of consequence, demand is expected to broaden with a convergent effect.

INTERESTING NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE MARKETS

Weather Reports, Crop Advices, Expert Opinions and Newspaper Comment

COTTON GOSSIP

The Times Democrat says: Again the government reported only a very few light showers in the western cotton belt, and shorts began to submit to the conviction that the drouth has assumed serious proportions. With such admission came a yearning for safety, a demand for covering, and a sharp advance. Dallas reported heavy sales and a good price gain of ¼ of a cent. Liverpool's action indicated some uneasiness among foreign consumers. The official temperature map showed another fair weather in the west. Under the circumstances a higher market was inevitable. New crop options in fact began to swell the movement a little. Nevertheless, the crop is visibly short of American cotton decreased 165,000 bales, to 1,040,000 bales, as against 1,206,000 on the same day last year. Galveston expects to receive 7,000 bales, today, which will compare with 7,050 bales last year and 6,505 bales in 1911. The Times Democrat will publish, in the editions of Monday, the usual quarterly digest of its correspondents covering the condition of the cotton crop up to the end of August 1.

Times Democrat has following from Dallas: Crops have not been injured seriously by dry weather, but rains are needed. Make one of the most sections of the state to prevent crop losses, according to reports today. Local

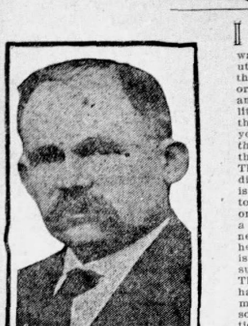
Thousands Of Dollars Are Lost By Bad Eggs



IT is surprising how many dollars are lost annually over the United States by the waste of bad eggs, and it seems utterly impossible to ever teach the people, either the producers or the buyers, to avoid this loss and to add to their profits with a little caution thousands of dollars that are now going to waste every year. It can so easily be done that anyone can accomplish it if they would only make an effort. The best way to do this is immediately after the hatching season is over, say by the first of May, is to remove or kill every male bird on the place or confine them in a coop or yard where they will never come in contact with the hens that produce the eggs. This is one way and the quickest and surest way that it can be done. There are scarcely any chickens hatched all during the summer months throughout the entire south and in very few other sections of the world. Therefore, it is useless to keep the males and feed them to earn no profit, but to lose for you hundreds of dollars which they will surely do. Any eggs that are fertile will germinate during hot summer days almost before you know it and immediately after this process takes place the egg will spoil or decay, an infertile egg will never spoil, and it is not so much the loss by that particular egg, but it usually comes in contact with others and will spoil them, and if it does not do so a few bad eggs in a case of eggs will cause you to depreciate the value of that particular case anywhere from $1.00 to $3.00, and besides it gives the buyer of the eggs at all times his doubts as to the freshness of the eggs. Therefors they will always put the price on them low enough to pay for the bad ones and it is well that they should do so to save themselves. Either the merchant or the consumer must protect themselves, and this is one reason of the low price of even strictly fresh eggs.

Tennessee, by careful instructions to the producer and a little work carried on by the merchants and people who buy the eggs direct from the producers, has educated and learned the producers much about improved quality of their eggs, and the increased revenue of the Tennessee producers alone last year amounted to more than a million by raising the standard grade of their eggs through this method. The Georgia merchants and people who buy eggs direct from the producers are beginning to learn these lessons and when they use an egg tester, which can be made in five minutes and every egg candled as it is bought from the producer at the average country store and only pay the producer for the good eggs and discard the bad ones. If this was done by every buyer of eggs, even by the housewife alone, it would force the producer to be more careful and more particular about their eggs, and in time to come would mean the saving of several million dollars per year to the producer of eggs alone in this state. This seems a little item but is a serious one and a big one and of too much value not to be looked after. How often do you go in a store, either retail or wholesale, and inspect a large number of eggs, especially the shipping cases at this season of the year and find a terrible odor among these eggs? Naturally you fight shy of these eggs and will not buy them even at a low price; if you could possibly secure nice, clean, fresh eggs or known quality you would feel like paying 10 cents to 20 cents per dozen more and would then save money by doing away with the bad eggs yesterday-laid eggs from some reliable party. The trade and demand in Atlanta alone for strictly fresh eggs during the past two or three years has been a wonderful improvement and at nearly every soda fount and lunch room now can be found most always a supply of clean, fresh eggs that you know positively to be good. But, how few people appreciate this and are willing to pay the price that they are actually worth. It is true that the people of Atlanta have become educated to this fact and there is a big improvement brought about in the past two or three years in this matter, but yet room for further improvement and the saving to this state of more than $1,000,000 per year. Investigate particular with the egg products, killing the males and handling the eggs with more promptness and care than ever before. No country merchant can afford to buy the eggs that are offered for sale at his store by Tom, Dick and Harry and even pay 10 cents per dozen for them during the summer months and take chances on getting the quality that 90 per cent of them are buying and shipping to the city merchants to handle them for him. These stores must at once use the egg tester and candle their eggs and quickly educate the farmers how to save for themselves these bad eggs and increase the price for his good ones which it will surely do.

It is up to the country merchant who buys the eggs to do this work for his own self protection, and for the benefit of the people who produce them who are his customers. A majority of them do not know better, but one merchant in a community can educate hundreds who would find at the end of the year many dollars in their pockets that now go to the dump pile. Much work of untold value can be done in this respect throughout this and all other states.

Yours very truly,

Tommy Brown

QUESTIONS ASKED AND ANSWERED.

QUESTION.

Tifton, Ga.

Please give me a remedy for the heaves in a horse. I have this affection and am anxious to get a remedy.

SUBSCRIBER.

ANSWER.

It would be best for you to consult some veterinary surgeon about the heaves in your horse. At different stages of this disease they require different treatment and some things that will cure one horse will not cure another. The veterinary surgeon can tell you better than I can just what to do.

Dr. C. A. Carey, of Auburn, Ala., will probably give you this information if you will write him and enclose a stamp for reply. State how long horse has been troubled and describe fully.

Three Houses and 24 Vacant Lots on LaFrance Street Bring $30,000—Peachtree and Piedmont Avenue Corner Sold for $18,000—Kennesaw Avenue and Other Sales—Growth of DeKalb Tax Values—Mr. Parrott Building Home

Some quite interesting real estate announcements were made today, one of them involving the sale of twenty-four lots and three houses and lots on LaFrance street, in the Inman Park section. The consideration was $30,000.

This property was sold by the Edwin P. Ansley agency for Mrs. Mary Ann Tripod and others to an investor. The Ansley agency will handle the property, which will be offered in lots on easy terms.

The property has a frontage of 410 feet on LaFrance street at Candler street. The purchaser will open a connecting street and place all improvements. LaFrance street already has all the improvements including the street car line.

PEACHTREE ROAD SALE.

Mrs. M. C. Johnson has sold to a prominent Atlanta capitalist the northwest corner of Peachtree road and Piedmont avenue, formerly Plaster's bridge road, for an aggregate consideration of $18,000, or at the rate of $75 a front foot, reckoned by the Peachtree road frontage.

This property, which is vacant, has a frontage of 240 feet on Peachtree road and a depth along Piedmont avenue of 485 feet.

The purchaser bought the lot as a home site, and will improve it with an expensive residence. Homer McAfee, of the Haas and McIntyre agency, handled the transaction.

SALE OF DE LEON SALE.

The Martin-Osburn Realty company as sold for J. C. & R. B. Stovall to Ralph B. Martin No. 21 Kennesaw avenue, a residence on a lot 52x130, for $6,000.

EAST POINT SALE.

Crawford Maddox, of the J. R. Smith & J. H. Ewing agency, has sold for J. R. Smith to a client a house and lot in East Point for $2,000.

DEKALB COUNTY TAXES.

The growth of realty values in DeKalb county is startlingly shown in the amount of tax returns made to the comptroller general. The total for 1913 is $10,035,155, an increase of $1,276 over last year.

This showing compares favorably with those of counties with large cities in them.

Of course, a great deal of this includes Atlanta property, but a large proportion also is made up of values in Decatur, Kirkwood, Oakhurst, the East Lake section and other towns in DeKalb county.

MR. PARROTT BUILDING.

George W. Parrott is building a residence, which he will occupy, at the northwest corner of Peachtree and Seventh streets, formerly known as the Goode property.

The house will be of stone, and will cost $12,000. It will replace an old frame house and garage which was recently torn down to make way for the new house.

CONTRACTOR IN BANKRUPTCY.

An involuntary action in bankruptcy, with a petition for receiver, has been filed against J. J. Adperson, a contractor, by three creditors.

The creditors are the Tripod Paint company, with a claim of $41; the Phoenix Planing mill, with a claim of $2,796, and the Crane company, with a claim of $73.

ONE CITIZEN, AT LEAST, DID NOT REGRET THAT THE ERUPTION OF LAVA CAME ALONG AND SAVED HIM FROM LOSING A BOUT WITH HIS ANXIOUSLY-WAITING WIFE.
I WISH YOU WOULD FINISH POWDERING YOUR NOSE—I WANT TO WASH MY TOGA
EVERY PRIVATE HOME IN THE EXCAVATED CITY HAS A POOL OF WATER WHICH WAS USED FOR A MIRROR.
I WONDER IF THEY KEPT OPEN AFTER ONE O'CLOCK IN THOSE DAYS
ONE RELIC SHOWS THAT THE TURKEY TROT IS BY NO MEANS A MODERN INSTITUTION.
IS VESUVIUS STILL SMOKING?
NO, ONE OF THE POMPEIAN MUMMIES IS UP THERE COOKING HIS BREAKFAST
THOSE CAPS MUST BE VERY FINE QUALITY TO LAST 2500 YEARS
MOURNERS USED TO USE THOSE CUPS FOR SAVING THEIR TEARS
WHAT DID THEY DO WITH THEIR LAUGHS—PUT THEM IN A SUIT-CASE?
GUESS I'LL CALL UP JULIUS CAESAR AND ASK HIM IF HE'S GOT ANY NEW ADDRESSES
IT IS NO EASY MATTER TO DISTINGUISH THE PETRIFIED POPULATION FROM THE SOLDIERS ON GUARD.
THEY CAN TELL YOU ANYTHING ABOUT THE ANTIQUES WITHOUT FEAR OF CONTRADICTION.

DROUTH IN WEST TO CAUSE BEEF SHORTAGE

Argentina Cattle Will Be Barred and American Supply Causes Anxiety

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Sharp increase in the prices of fresh beef are expected to follow the drouth in Kansas, Iowa, Nebraska and Oklahoma, and officials of the department of agriculture are not concealing their anxiety over the outlook. Their apprehension is increased by unfavorable reports said to have been received from agents now in South America concerning the condition of the cattle trade.

In anticipation of the increased meat imports that would follow the passage of the new tariff measure, Dr. A. B. Melvin was sent by the department to South America to observe the manner in which cattle was slaughtered and meat packed in those countries. He is said to have reported that a serious hoof and mouth epidemic is raging in Argentina, the principal meat-growing country of South America, and this necessarily would bar the entrance of such meat to the United States.

Australia, in the event of serious shortage, is expected to furnish much of the meat consumed by Americans in the immediate future. This supply may be limited, however, because of Great Britain's demand, if Argentina fails her market.

BANKS WILL ORGANIZE TO FAVOR GRAIN CROPS

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 15.—A conference of the bankers of Tattnall county has been called by the Tattnall bank of this city, to be held in Reidsville on August 22, for the purpose of organizing a Tattnall County Bankers' association.

It is the desire of the directors of the Tattnall bank to assist the farmers in the marketing of their produce, encouraging them to devote more acreage to the production of grain crops, and it is believed that with the banks of the county organized for this purpose, the resources of the county will be centralized and the desired results may be accomplished.

Families of four members make up 18 per cent; of five, 14 per cent, and those of six, 10 per cent. In London, the women living alone outnumber the lonely men to the extent of 88,594 to 37,130.

VOTERS REGISTER FOR MACON MAYORALTY RACE

MACON, Ga., Aug. 16.—The registration books at the city hall have had 215 new names added in the past two days, showing the interest that is being manifested in the coming mayoralty election. The total registration is now more than 1,700 and before the month closes it is expected that 2,000 voters will have registered for the election.

For a while the registration dragged along with apparently little interest, but with the recent meeting held for the purpose of electing the new city executive committee, the voters have been keeping the men in the registration office working overtime, registering their names.

WOMAN COLLECTOR GIVES ANTIQUES TO CHICAGO

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair, of Chicago, collector of tapestries, wood carvings, stone statuettes and rare and antique furniture, arrived here yesterday on a steamer from France. Mrs. Blair is an invalid and for many years has been a resident of Paris, where she has created in her apartments a museum. Her collection of antiques, which she characterizes as the largest of its kind owned by any person west of New York, she proposes to place provisionally in the Chicago museum.

RAIN IS HURTING REIDSVILLE COTTON

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Aug. 16.—It is feared that the continued rains, which have fallen here for the past month or more, will work serious injury to the cotton already open, as well as retard the future crop. Fodder pulling was seriously interfered with and a large part of it was never gathered. Those who have cotton open now, and there are a large number who have, are unable to pick it.

Other crops are doing well, and the farmers continue to look optimistically upon the outcome.

THREE MEN ARE SHOT IN RIOT OF ERIE STRIKERS

(By Associated Press.)

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 16.—Ten men are under arrest in connection with serious rioting here last night, in which three men were shot.

The rioting was the first serious development of the molders' strike, which has been in effect ten months and which involves 1,500 men.

One of the rioters arrested was Joseph Noyak, who was released two days ago from the penitentiary, where he had served a long sentence for a similar offense.

FETNER WILL NOT BE ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE

MACON, Ga., Aug. 16.—W. H. Fetner, chairman of the board of water commissioners, has positively stated that he will not tender his resignation from the board to be a candidate for alderman on Bridges Smith's aldermanic ticket. Mr. Fetner first announced that he had not fully made up his mind, but he now says that he positively will not resign.

It is said that he was counted upon as being one of the strongest candidates for alderman on the Smith ticket, and since he refused to resign so he could make the race, many of the Smith voters are complaining among themselves.

HUERTA GOVERNMENT MUST MAKE NEXT MOVE

Mexican President Will Consider Formal Note From U. S. State Department

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Administration officials here expect the next move in the Mexican situation to come from the Huerta government. Official advices that the views of the United States as set forth in a formal note had been delivered to the Mexican government and were under consideration by Huerta and his cabinet, were received here today with the additional information that the views of the United States had been transmitted at the same time to diplomatic representatives of foreign governments in Mexico City, according to President Wilson's original plans.

Secretary Bryan preserved silence today, even declining to say whether the note had been presented.

The Mexican embassy here had no advices whatever of Mr. Lind's note; it had not been advised of its contents by the state department here and embassy officials expected to receive it, if at all from Minister Gamboa in Mexico City.

Publication of this government's views as set out in the note temporarily is being withheld at the request of the Huerta administration so it may be permitted to go over the communication, Secretary Bryan's plan is to publish the contents simultaneously in Washington and Mexico City later and probably with the acquiescence of Huerta.

The senate foreign relations committee again today discussed the Mexican situation and the scope of the report by the special investigating committee.

The committee directed that this report and an individual report by Senator Fall should be laid before the entire foreign relations committee probably next week, for decision whether they shall be submitted to the senate. None of the pending resolutions on Mexican affairs was acted upon.

Constitutionalists Are Reported in Full Retreat

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—General Venustiano Carranza, constitutionalist leader in northern Mexico, with a large number of his troops, now is in Durango, according to state department dispatches today, having retreated westward after a reported defeat near Torreon, where about 2,000 of his revolutionist followers were killed. Carranza had not been heard from since July 25.

Gilbert Duthie, of El Paso, reported kidnaped and held for ransom by followers of Maximo Castilo, has been liberated.

PITTSBURG POLICE SEEK TWO MURDERERS

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 16.—County detectives today are searching for the murderer of Miss Pauline Loos, a young school teacher of Crafton, Pa., whose body was found yesterday floating in the Allegheny river near Verona.

PROMINENT FARMER SHOOTS SELF IN HEAD

P. C. Colley Commits Suicide After Bidding His Wife Good-Night

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

ALBANY, Ga., Aug. 16.—P. C. Colley, a well known farmer of Terrell county, committed suicide at his home four miles southeast of Dawson last night by shooting himself with a pistol. The cause is not known. Colley had been in his usual health until the time he went upstairs to retire for the night. A few minutes afterward a pistol shot was heard.

Mrs. Colley ran upstairs and, partially realizing what had happened, called to her husband without, however, entering his room. When he did not answer she ran back down stairs and called up neighbors over the telephone. When her call for assistance was answered it was found that Mr. Colley was dead with a bullet in his brain.

Mr. Colley and his family had only recently moved to a new home in the country, having formerly made their home in Dawson. He leaves besides his wife four children, two boys and two girls, the youngest of whom is seven or eight years of age and the eldest a young man in the United States navy. Funeral arrangements have not yet been arranged.

LANIER REFUSED NEW TRIAL BY JUDGE T. A. PARKER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 16.—At chambers court today the motion for a new trial in the W. C. Lanier case, who is under a life sentence for murder, was overruled by Judge T. A. Parker. Attorneys charged in the motion that Judge Parker erred in his charge to the jury. The case will be taken to the supreme court.

The Silly Season

PARIS.—It looks as though the silly season had preciously set in. Already we have had the American widow—"beautiful and blonde as a Versailles autumn" according to a lyrical reporter—who left twelve thousand pounds' worth of jewels wrapped up in a handkerchief—no not in the piano—but on her chest of drawers. Another absent minded dame walked out of a manicurist's establishment, leaving behind her no name, but five rings, which the intelligent police sergeant to whom they were taken by the honest manicurist valued at 2,000 pounds each.
